When Elk Grove Villaeg's Judiciary, Planning and Zoning Committee meets tonight to talk about potential use of a 140acre unincorporated area in the vicinity of Biesterfield, Devon. Illinois Rt. 53 and Bisner Road, they will probably hear a plug for single-family residential from Village Pres Jack Pahl

Pahl vesterday was critical of planning for anything but single-family, and at one point commented that Paddock Publications had joined Trustee Eugene Keith and landowners Joseph Zizzo and the Butitta brothers in "doing a disservice to the com-

Yesterday, the Herald reported comments by Keith, Trustee Richard McGrenera and Trustee Tom Ullmann about prospects for the land, which is currently undeveloped and is to be bisected by the 1-90 expressway sought annexation and multiple-family zoning from Elk Grove Village. When he was denied, he turned to Cook County

AT A HEARING Oct 21, most testimony centered around the single-family character of adjacent land Cross-examination also showed that Zizzo had not made provisions for obtaining water and sewer facilities, and the development of Bisner Road was one of the things Elk Grove Village wanted.

Early this month, the zoning board of appeals decided to recommend that the request be denied by the Cook County board of supervisors, and the matter is scheduled to come before county officials

In the meantime, Elk Grove Village passed a comprehensive plan that showed the entire area as single-family residential. However, when the village's zoning ordinance was being prepared, there were apparently second thoughts about singlefamily residential along I-90.

Tentatively, then, the map shows "office and research" Butitta is seeking annexation and high-rise multi-family. Pahl eastern edge of the area in dispute, had wants to keep the area single-family, and three village trustees who make up the judiciary, planning and zoning committee are toying with several other alternatives

Arguing his case for single-family yesterday, Pahl noted that expressways don't always have to discourage low-density zon-

Some of the most desirable single-family residential in the area is along expressways," Pahl said, noting Lake Briarwood in Mount Prospect and some development along the brief patch of I-90 north of Golf Road.

HE CONTENDED that municipal economics make single-family more desirable than office and research, citing Motor Fuel Tax revenue and possibly state income tax revenue.

The village president said he had received "about 20 calls in the last four years" on the land, and none of them were thinking about office and research

Marshall Bennett, of Bennett and Kahnweiler, who serve as agents for Centex Corp., was mentioned by Pahl. The village president said that Bennett is an expert in land-development potential, and has not given any sort of recommendation for office and research Centex developments are on both sides of the proposed zoning.

Pahl contended that at one time Centex was interested in getting the land in question, primarily because of sewage arrangements with the Metropolitan Sanitary District for Centex holdings west of Route 53 When an alternate route for a sewer line was found, Pahl said, Centex interest withered.

THROUGHOUT ALL of it, Pahl continued, Butitta brothers owned that parcel. The president commented that the landowners had approached the village on a number of occasions with ideas for possible development, ranging from industrial to commercial to multi-family. Pahl has apparently not been impressed with any of the suggestions, and McGrenera, when interviewed last week, said the arrangement of buildings and lack of open space was the foundation for the latest discouragement directed toward

The president expressed the belief that a front page story in yesterday's Herald would hurt unity of the judiciary, planning and zoning group, which he termed "a problem.

Recreation Supt Suzanne Olson said that the school-park effort has attracted about 1,500 children it offers a combination of summer school classes and recreational programs

REGISTRATION FOR the regular summer program will begin June 9 at district offices located at Biesterfield and Lancaster Roads.

Among the programs being organized are boys' and girls' softball, hosteling, outdoor cooking classes, sewing for girls, summer band concerts, teen dances, jogging, guitar lessons, tennis lessons, teen swimming parties and a children's day

The district will also participate in the Paddock Olympics on July 29 and 30, and the Knights of Columbus Track Meet on

Along with formal programs will be a "travelling playgrounds" arrangement which will feature a rotating schedule of instruction in team sports, crafts, music, dramatics and nature It will rotate for one-week periods at Bartram, Fairchild, Appleseed, Osborn and Muir parks.

HOSTELING, FOR junior high school and high school students, may expand to a year-round activity. It will feature bicycling, boating, skiing, hiking and canoeing. Involved are one-day and weekend trips.

Two leagues are planned for each of the two softball programs, for 8 to 15 yearolds, and the Knights of Olumbus meet is open to fourth and fifth grade students. The Paddock Olympics, to be held in Lions Park, Mount Prospect, is for children 8 to

A weekly series of band concerts, to be held at Grantwood School, will feature a variety of marching and concert bands from July 2 through Aug 27.

Teen dances, scheduled for Grant Wood youth center, will be held on Thursday nights, and live bands will be featured.

one is interested in placing bets on the $6,300 now, want $7,500, and were offered outcome of resumed bargaining for next year's contracts. Roy Landzbaum, president of the Teachers' Council, said yesterday, "I'm hoping that things can be wrapped up, but you never know." A teacher at High Ridge Knolls School by day and member of the salary committee negotiations team by night, Landzbaum was talking about the chances of a settlement.

"Sometimes I'm very optimistic about it." he said, "and sometimes I'm pessimistic. But right now I just have no idea of how it will go."

BOTH SIDES are getting back together after bargaining was broken off two weeks ago. The district had made an offer based on a $6,900 minimum for 10 month contracts, and teachers almost unanimously said "no." They voted 406 to 1 to not accept the district offer.

The offer included a salary schedule that would result in pay increases ranging from 13 to nearly 22 per cent, depending on educational background and experi-

The two groups agreed to meet again when one side or the other had something new to offer. Teachers said they would wait "as long as necessary" for another -- and larger — package from the district.

What is bringing them together again are a few fringe benefit proposals suggested by Supt. Donald Thomas in a letter to Harlan Michels, chairman of the teacher group, and Richard Hess, chairman of the board of education budget committee.

At one point, before talks were suspended, both sides limited comment to we're very close to settlement." Since talks were ended, the major issues have been teacher demands for more money than has been offered, and some sort of inclusion in contracts of class size regulations.

THE BOARD offered, in the opinion of the administration, "the best they could," and has been steadfastly opposed to any changes in class size policy

"It's not a negotiable item," they wrote to the teachers when an initial package was presented by the faculty representa-

Teachers are getting a minimum of $6,900. "That's not nearly enough," Michels said.

Clue to a possible breakthrough in talks was the suggestion that if the district gets more money from either local taxes or the state, it's possible that student-teacher ratio can be cut from the current 29-1 to 25-1 Aditionally teachers said they'd be willing to take 12-month contracts based on $8,200, a comment that fell on a few friendly ears in Dist. 59.

MICHELS in the leadership position of teachers by virtue of being salary committee chairman and president-elect of the Teachers Council, is driving a hard bargain. He has not ruled out the possibility of holding out well into the 1969-70 school year, or a strike. He is, however, not using those clubs yet

The board of education, under fire from Mount Prospect dissident parents and expecting attack from Elk Grove Village's branch of the John Birch Society, has a $12 million budget to wade through It would like to have a settlement with teachers since about one-third of that budget is for the salary of 450 faculty members, and changes could throw the budget out of bal-

Teachers Set Contract Vote

High School Dist. 214 teachers will be asked Thursday to approve a 1969-70 salary and benefit package that sets a salary range of $7,400 to $15,540.

School board members were briefed last night on the package proposal in the door session. They will probably meet to approve it next Monday.

The salary package calls for a $700 raise from last year's $6,700 starting salary More teachers will get a larger raise than that.

Jack Martin, assistant to Supt. Edward H. Gilbert, said the average Dist 214 leacher, with eight years' experience and a master's degree, will get a 14 per cent annexation of farm land. SINCE IN COOK County there is no zoning specified for agricultural land, the Farmer's Bureau was under the impression farm and truck garden land could be annexed involuntarily to villages. Fox says letters were sent May 20 to nine Cook County senators in an effort to defeat the bill which has passed the state house of representatives.

Only one senator has responded to the first letter, Sen. John Graham (R-3rd District, Barrington). Graham came out last week opposing the bill as an attempt to violate the freedom of the individual.

Fox says the State Farm Bureau supported the bill, but because Cook County had no zoning for agriculture the Cook County Farm Bureau was seriously con-

The Cook County Farm Bureau represents 7,320 farmers who own 4,264 in Illinois. Of these 4,264 farms, 1,008 are in Cook County and comprise 104,000 acres. Some of this land is not in use, but 86,000 acres are now planted for crops and 7,000 for vegetables.

MRS. C. E. POTTER, secretary of the Pinehurst Manor Association in Palatine has also expressed opposition to the bill saying the bill is "taking away our basic right of choice."

In a recent letter to the Herald, Schlickman stressed several points of disagreement with a May 15 story.

The bill was not submitted to the House last year by Schlickman and denied the governor's signature, Schlickman con-

Schlickman also calls attention to the fact that the bill requires notice of proposed annexation be sent to property owners by certified or registered mail in addition to a legal notice.

raise under the new salary scale. The salary level for that teacher this year was $10,553, compared to $11,248 proposed for

The salary package was negotiated between school board negotiators and bargainers for the Teachers Association. DURING THE PROCESS both sides gave ground.

Teachers Association representatives started by asking an $8,500 starting salary for a beginning teacher with a bechelor's degree and a $9,000 starting salary for a beginning teacher with a master's.

The settlement calls for a beginning teacher with a master's degree to start in one of Dist. 214's six schools — Arlington. Prospect, Forest View, Wheeling, Elk Grove, or Hersey - at a 10-month salary of $8,140.

The current salary scale offers $13,800 double the starting salary - to a 15-year teacher with 30 credit hours beyond the master's degree level. The 1969-70 salary package up for approval by the teachers Thursday will offer double the starting salary - $14,800 - to a 15-year teaching veteran without the extra credit past a

The package calls for higher extra-duty pay for teachers who supervised extracurricular activities. The highest extraduty pay level, $1,100, will go to head football, head basketball and head debate coaches.

Teachers, irritated at a public which thinks that because the total staff-student ratio in Dist. 214 is 19-1, the average class load is 19 students, successfully included in their bargaining demands a stipulation that from now on Dist. 214 report teacherstudents loads as well.

BOARD MEMBERS were able to set the door ajar regarding merit pay, a long-time preference of the school board.

One of the points in the bargaining package calls for an "ad hoc" committee to be appointed by the board of education to work with the Teachers Association "for the purpose of devising an improved program for teacher evaluation."

How that evaluation might be applied to salaries were not indicated.

The agreement will provide more substitutes for teachers away from their classes to attend professional meetings and workshops and will provide more funds to pay for the trips and professional membership.

The agreement allots $10,000 to each high school for professional expenses other than Illinois Education Association dues. About half of this, $50 per teacher, will be spent as the teacher chooses.

ROSEMARY CHILSTROM, Forest View Teacher who headed the teachers' negofiating team, said her group had 36 meetings during their months of bargaining.

She said the package includes some benefits for other school employes.

The agreement calls for Dist. 214 to pay hospitalization and medical insurance for all school personnel working 30 hours a week or more and to also pick up the tab for medical insurance coverage of the employes' dependents.

Life insurance benefits will also be increased, with the district paying $5,000 worth of life insurance and teachers able to pick up another $5,000 of coverage at their own option.

SAMMY'S THE tough little guy who fought his way up from the bottom. The blind boy who skated his heart out, after it was busted twice, and went on to be named to the Roller Derby Hall of Fame in 1952 at the age of 25

"A winner is never a quitter and a quitter never wins," said Sammy, "And remember, a pat on the back is only 18 unches above a kick in the seat. My father told me that when I was a boy and I've never forgotten it "

Sammy and speed are synonymous. On skates, he's been clocked at 42 miles an hour around a wooden track lie holds the world's record for the mile too two minutes, 33 seconds flat

He set the record Marcy 28, 1958, in New York's 14th Regiment Armory, shattering the old world record, which stood for 18 years, by 3.6 seconds

"I had a funny feeling in my stomach before the race Almost like I knew I was going to set the record. I felt the adrenalin pumping into my system and after I made my final lap I collapsed

FOUR YEARS AGO Sammy hung up his skates to devote more time to his family, And today, the 44-year-old former roller derby star and his wife, Vee, operate a small restaurant and catering service at 34 S Main St., Mount Prospect.

Sammy Skobel's Hot Dogs Plus they call It. A hot dog on skates is their emblem. And according to Sammy, who hopes someday to obtain a franchise on it, business is thriving.

Legally, Sammy is blind.

When he was four years old, he was stricken with scarlet fever, a disease from which he recovered, but which left him with only 10 per cent of his vision in both

"Fever destroyed the optic nerves. People ask if maybe glasses or an operation might help. Well, I do have glasses. Magnifying glasses for reading. But as far as restoring my vision, forget it. When your sight is that far gone, there isn't much you can do. You have to feel your

But I've accepted that and instead of being able to see, I've developed my sense of hearing and touch to the point where it's almost like being able to see."

Sammy may be blind. But you'd never suspect it. Today he hustles around his small shop so nimbly, you'd swear he was still on skates.

BESIDES HIS family and skating, Sammy is also interested in helping others like himself, the blind. "I've had this handicap as long as I can remember. When I was a kid growing up, my parents never let me feel handicapped. They treated me just like any other kid. making me work in my father's grocery store washing walls. And believe me, I didn't like it, either.

"Anything you set your mind to do, if you're determined, you can do. I like to talk to groups of blind people and carry my story to them.

"If I can do it, they can do it. You have to do it yourself. Nobody is going to do it for you. But once you starat feeling sorry for yourself, you're sunk," he said.

Sammy grew up in Chicago and graduated from Crane Tech High School. "My teachers were good to me. All my tests were taken after school. They had to administer them orally." Sammy always loved sports.

"I couldn't see well enough to play foolball or haseball. And I couldn't make much of a career out of track. I used to run the mile in four minutes, 22 seconds . . but I could never afford to win because I needed someone out in front of me to fol-

SAMMY BEGAN skating professionally when he was 18.

"I was dared into trying out for a roller derby team at school. So me and a friend went to the Chicago Collscum to try out, I was hunded a contract, but I couldn't read it So I went into a phone booth where I thought no one would see me, pulled out my magnifying glass and began to scan it. But someone saw me. And when they found out I couldn't see, they cancelled the contract. "Then, later, I went up to Milwaukee and tried out again for the same team, the Chicago Westerners. But when they saw me, they remembered me and turned me thumbs down again, not because of my ability, but because of my handicap. "Well, that busted my heart. I remember going to the men's locker room after that and crying my eyes out for an hour. But I got over it and a few months later went to Chattanooga to try out for another Team, the Brooklyn Red Devils. And this time I made it.'

Sammy skated for the Red Devils from 1945 to 1951. In 1952 he switched over as captain for the New York Chiefs and that same year skated his way into the Roller Derby Hall of Fame.

A TROPHY WAS presented to him at that time by the Long Island Star-Journal and today it rests high on a display shelf in his restaurant, along with other trophies and a collection of photos taken of him during his career.

In 1953 he was traded to the Chicago Westerners, the team that turned him down twice because he was blind, and he stayed with them until he retired 12 years

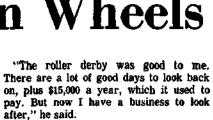

During Sammy's last game, May 8, 1965, he was high scorer and went out in high style. "I made 11 points and scored a grand slam on the last play of the game for five points. I got it by passing the entire opposing team, five men, which in this case was the New York Chiefs. Well, we beat 'em 39 to 34. And I don't have to tell you what those last five points meant."

In 1949 Sammy suffered his worst roller derby injury, seven broken ribs. "One of my teammates didn't remember the play or that he was supposed to be blocking for me. And as a result I got hit hard and it burt.'

Scrapping Sammy said he used to see the crowds and other skaters as blurs, but claims he could identify the opposition by studying their body contour and skating style. "I got so I could identify everyone in the league," he said.

WHEN SAMMY retired to spend more time with his family, he went to work for the Ekco Container Co. in Wheeling as cafeteria manager. Then in January, 1967, he opened his own business in Mount Pros-

(Because of the furor over HB 1241, Intraduced March 28, 1989 by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Beights, the Herald is presenting a digest of the bill and its recent amendments.)

HB 1241 adds a new section to the Municipal Code allowing cities and villages within counties over 50,000, to annex contignous unincorporated territory, provided certain procedures are used

This bill will apply to municipalities in both Cook and Oullage counties because both these counties exceed the 50,000 population mark

The bill also sets ground rules for objections to annexation and allows annexed territory to disannex within five years under certain conditions

Municipalities may annex unincorporated territory, the bill specifies, by inihating court proceedings

The process of annexation will be-1 - the municipality adopts an ordinance saying it desires to annex certain territory and gives a legal description of the territory

2 - The ordinance of annexation is filed with the clerk of the Circuit Court for the county

3 - The ordinance must have a twothirds vote of the corporate authorities. 4 - The ordinance shall be published officially and filed 34 days after publication. A map of the boundaries of the annexing municipality must be presented to show the unincorporated area is contiguous.

THE BILL ALSO provides that at least three-fourths of the unincorporated territory must have been subdivided into lots or blocks or be devoted to commercial or industrial inco

Mayor Assigns 6 Committees

Committee assignments for the Schaumburg Village Board members were announced last week by Mayor Robert O. At-

The six standing committees are finance, fire and police, legal, public works, safely, health, recreation and education and sewer and water.

Committee members are:

Finance - Wilfred Meyer, chairman, with Gordon Mullins and Donald DeVale. Fire and Police — Raymond Kessell. chairman, with Mullins and Meyer.

LEGAL, ORDINANCE and Legislation James Guthrie, chairman, DeVale and Mathew Helsper.

Public Works (streets, building, storm drainage) — Helsper, chairman, Kessell and Guthrie. Safety, Health, Recreation and Education - Mullins, chairman, Guthrie and Mever.

Sewer and Water - DeVale, chairman, Heisper and Kessell.

In addition, Kessell is adviser to the plan commission and Helsper is adviser to the zoning board of appeals.

and the fact that notice is not received shall not be grounds for defense in annexation proceedings

The notice shall be filed with the Northeastern Illinois Plahning Commission, any county planning commission or the Plan Commission of the town annexing.

THE MUNICIPALITY shall pay a $10 filing fee plus a service fee

Any person, firm or corporation residing in either the annexing municipality or the unincorporated territory to be annexed or any parties owning property within one mile of the property to be annexed may file objections with the clerk

The nine possible objections are: 1 - The unincorporated territory is not contiguous to the annexing village or city.

2 - The ordinance is not adopted under proper procedures by the village or city. 3 - The description of the unincorporated area is incorrect.

4 - The area does not fit the bills' deacription allowing annexation of territory subdivided into lots or blocks, devoted to commercial or industrial use. 5 - Annexation of the unincorporated territory will be incompatible with the proper development of the municipality.

6 - The city or village will not be able to furnish needed services. 7 - The annexation will not be in the best interest of the municipality, the unincorporated area or the surrounding area. 8 - The objector's property is on the edge of the territory, does not fit into the legal description of areas to be annexed and he contends the exclusion of his land from the annexation will not ruin the whole annexation plan.

The newest amendment inserted in the bill, No. 9, the "Prospect Hieghts Amendment" negotiated between Schlickman and Prospect Heights representatives excludes "all or part of an area bonded together by common or unique characteristics, presently recognized or identified as a separate community, over 65 per cent residential, and contiguous to more than 2 munici-

If the court agrees the objections are valid, it will order elimination of the objector's land from the territory to be an-

THE COURT WILL then issue an order decreeing the territory annexed. The court order may not include less than 50 per cent of the territory originally described in the ordinance.

If the conditions have not been filed by

This affidavit is to be evidence of notice at least 50 per cent of the territory the court will dismiss the case.

The court order can be appealed to the Appellate Court of the district in which the property to be annexed is located.

Territory annexed under this law may be disconnected within five years after annexation.

Disannexation petitions must show that the municipality has been unable or unwilling to furnish municipal services to the

If the area is successfully disannexed it shall not be exempt from taxation for the purpose of paying any debts contracted by the city or village prior to the filing of the petition for disconnection.

Attendants Will Assist

Being a bridal attendant is an honor, but an expensive one, because of the travel and wedding attire involved. Both the bride and her fiance should keep this in mind in choosing their attendants.

The role of maid or matron of honor traditionally is filled by a sister of the bride or groom, close relative or good friend. She precedes the bride to the altar, helps with the bride's veil, holds her bouquet during the ceremony, holds the groom's ring until it is required during the ceremony and assists in the reception line.

THE BET MAN assists the groom in all details, carries the bride's ring to the altar, gives the clergyman his fee in a sealed envelope after the ceremony and checks on the ushers before the service.

The bridesmaids' role is mostly decorative and they will be instructed by the clergyman at the rehearsal; but ushers should be at the church one hour before the ceremony, to offer their arm to a woman guest and escort her down the church ainle — seating her on the left if she is a friend of the bride, or on the right if she is a friend of the groom. Relatives and close friends should be seated toward the front, with the first two pews reserved for members of the immediate families.

"No, you can't have a great big smile . . ."

Johnston In Race

State Rep. Alan R Johnston, R-Kenilworth, is the third Republican candidate to seek the 13th District congressional vacancy left by Donald Rumsfeld.

Rumsfeld officially resigned the congressional seat as of midnight Sunday. A resignation telegram was sent Gov. Richard B. Oglivie Monday morning after Rumsfeld's swearing-in as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The telegram provides the governor opportunity to declare the congressional office vacant and to set a special election to fill it.

Johnston, considered a "sure" candidate, announced his intention to "seek the Republican nomination for congressman" through a press release Monday. His announcement follows that of Wilmette Republican Gerald Marks, a former Metropolitan Sanitary District trustee, and Joseph Mathewson, Winnetka Republican, former newsman and press secretary to Governor Ogilvie.

JOHNSTON, 55, of 206 Cumberland Ave., Kenilworth, is in his fourth term in the Illinois General Assembly, in the House since 1962. He is an associate and partner in the Chicago law firm of Jenner and Block.

The representative was chairman of the House Constitutional Convention Committee. He has also served as a member of the House Judiciary, Revenue, Personnel and Pensions and Military and Veterans Affairs committees.

He has served as vice chairman of the Election Laws Commission and is a former vice chairman of the House Election Committee. He was chairman of the special legislative committee in 1967-68 that investigated the Metropolitan Sanitary District and effected a reform administration.

Prior to his election to the Illinois Legislature, he was secretary and a director of the Chicago Crime Cormussion.

"My experience for four terms as a state legislator has given me first-hand knowledge of the operations of our state and local governments," Johnston said in announcing candidacy.

"IT IS ONLY through the successful joint functioning of these three levels of governments that problems such as air and water pollution, poverty and crime can be solved."

He said he will devote full time to campaigning after the legislature adjourns its current session June 30. He said he will develop positions on the major issues facing Congress today.

He listed his major achievements as taking a lead to eliminate vote frauds, effect economies in state government, combat air and water poliution, reorganize the Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District, fight organized crime and modernize the state constitution.

More than 300 Campfire Girls from the Northwest suburban area received achievement awards at the annual Council Fire held May 18 at Wheeling High School.

Seven girls received special campership awards and a trip to Camp Tiyalaka in Westfield, Wis., this summer. The girls were selected by a special committee on the basis of an essay, personal interviews and outstanding service to the Campfire Girls.

Recipients of the campership award are Susan Georgen, Linda Banas. Maureen Brock, Sharon Smith, Linday Welles, and Marcia Phillips.

Policing the Judges

U.S. Supreme Court, and it's expected that disquieting reports on judicial conduct will continue to get the public spotlight.

The newest disturbing revelation - in the wake of the Abe Fortas resignation — centers around Justice William O Douglas

It was brought out that he was receiving $12,000 a year as the only paid officer of the Albert Parvin foundation, which makes fellowship grants for foreign students to study in the United States. To make matters seem worse, the foundation also owned considerable stock in a company that owns three Las Vegas gambling casinos.

Douglas has also been assailed for publicly condemning the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as a menace to conservation, and for personally injecting himself into a controversy involving a Corps project in Kentucky

In the case of the foundation. Douglas has resigned his position, and the foundation has sold its stock

In the tiff with the Corps of Engineers. Douglas' remarks remain on the public record. While we may agree with him philosophically, it is

A gloomy cloud remains over the clear that it is improper for a justice of the highest court in the land to intertere in such a squabble, particularly when the squabble and the Corps both may come before the

> The principle in the Douglas case is the same as that in the Fortas case They are men in a position of high public trust which should be regarded as sacred, and not as a source of either personal financial gain or influence.

> It has not, of course, been demonstrated that either Fortas or Douglas allowed their non-court involvements to reflect on their judgment, but the principle was violated nonetheless.

> A continuing glare will now be on the court, at least until the Congress, news media and public tire of trying to dredge up new disclosures.

> That sort of after-the-fact probing is no solution at all, and we repeat our admonition that action is needed to prevent concern over violations of the public trust.

> We again must score Congress for its failure to deal directly with the kind of questions of propriety being raised about the high court.

tablish rules of conduct for government officials, and to require mandatory disclosure of income. And yet the Congressmen have failed to police themselves, except in the mildest way, and they have failed to write disclosure rules for the executive and judicial branches.

We are encouraged by a recent suggestion from Chicago attorney Albert E. Jenner, himself proposed as a possible Supreme Court appointee.

Jenner wants to see the formation of a special commission that would serve as a kind of watchdog on not just the Supreme Court, but on all judges in the federal court system.

It would be made primarily of members of the judiciary and legal profession, and would respond to complaints from private citizens, judges, attorneys and bar associations.

Preliminary inquiries would be conducted privately, to avoid smearing or scandalizing anyone, but the commission would be fully empowered to report on improprieties and recommend action.

If Congress and the judiciary are truly looking for solutions, they

Call for All to Ball on Mall

by JAMES VESELY

Mount Prospect has come up with an idea that other villages might want to adopt for their own use.

Residents of Mount Prospect are getting together to hold an informal dance for the village

In Mount Prospect's case, it's called the "Village Ball on the Mall" and will be presented with the help of Randhurst, where the dance will take place.

The idea of the ball has the full endorsement of Mount Prospect's new may-

The idea is a good one because it throws open the doors to anyone in the village. The only theme of the dance is to honor past and present members of village government, and especially Mrs. Elizabeth Meyer, recently named to the Senior Citizen Hall of Fame.

An item in the Cook County Herald dated Friday, Sept. 9, 1911, calls attention to a Saturday night dance.

"Dances Continue Through September," reads the headline. "The Saturday night dances at Meyer's Electric Park which have been so popular will be continued through September. Good music and the best of everything. Don't fail to come and

They Could Call it the Arlingdome

by ED MURNANE

Take a Chicago-area map, draw a circle to represent the outlying areas that can be reached in a 25 to 35-minute drive, and that summediately adjacent to one major expressway and not too far from another

That * the site where a former politician and insurance man -- who apparently has the backing to do it - intends to build a $100 000 000 domed sports complex that will house, among other activities, the Chicago Bears football team

It also very well may be Arlangton Park Race Track - oft-rumored as the future site of a domed stadium and situated on Interstate 90-3 miles from 1-94

The man with the plans, and the backing, is Joseph Plunkett

HIS PROPOSAL for a domed stadium has unfolded in the past week on the pages of a Chicago newspaper. Plunkett has told everything about his proposal with the exception of the site, and said he is withholding that to prevent land prices from rising

Plunkett is credited with providing the spark that resulted in passage by the Illinois House of Representatives last week of a bill that would exempt tenants of the stadium from taxation for two years

The two-year tax exemption should be enough to make most professional sport owners seriously consider moving to such a stadium, and Plunkett already apparently has a pledge from George Halas of the Chicago Bears that the Bears would move from Wrigley Field, where they never play before an empty seat and could fill anoth- south suburban Lansing er 20,000 every Sunday if they had them. There are two reasons why Plunkett's proposal appears headed for Arlington FIRST IS the location he mentions and the already-expressed interest in putting a domed stadium at the race track.

But second is the fact that Plunkett himself is reported to have said the two elements which would make the proposal feasible are horse racing and auto racing -the two most popular sports in the country, attendance-wise.

Plunkett feels these two sports are necessary to pay the interest and retire the bonds It makes sense.

It also makes sense that the state racing board would not allow development of another race track so the facility would have to be at one that's already existing. That makes Arlungton Park seem even more likely

There is one note of gloom for those who would like to see a domed stadium in this area the stadium bill in the legislature was sponsored by Rep Jack Walker of

LANSING IS not far from Washington Park Race Track — Arlington's sister and also is located on one major exdistance from another (Interstate 80).

If it's going to become a struggle between the two, Arlington Park should have the edge.

Mrs. Marie Everett has developed an outstanding racing facility and is making the race track and surroundings a recreation and entertainment center for the entire Chicago area.

Despite the frequent complaints of neighbors who sometimes protest beforethe-fact, the track, the hotel and the other facilities there have not been a hardship on the area, with the possible exception of increased traffic on some days.

This area could become the most wellrounded community in the nation with a stadium to house professional sports, top notch entertainment and cultural events, and major conventions.

Hopefully, the objectors will not chase it

'Bill Is Bad For Nurses'

House Bill 1829 now before the Illinois General Assembly should be of vital interest to registered nurses in this state.

If passed, it will amend the Illinois Nursing Act and triple fees for registration (from $5 to $15 annually), for state board examinations which are mandatory for registration (from $25 to $50) and raise the cost of re-instating registration of licenses which have lapsed five or more years from $30 to $90.

In view of the ever-present shortage of nurses, this proposed legislation would deter inactive nurses from maintaining annual licensure due to the high cost. It would further dissuade nurses from ever returning to their profession because of the cost of reinstatement after a license has lapsed.

Many R N.s now maintain annual registration even though they do not work, thus providing the state with additional revenue. These nurses may drop this practice if the proposed legislation is passed and this may result in a drop in revenue from licensing sources

In the interests of nursing and of health care I urge all registered nurses to write to their state representatives voicing their objections to House Bill 1829

Reform the Draft? Abolish It!

In your editorial supporting reform of the draft, you said that the draft is necessary because of the problems of the world I would argue, on the contrary, that the draft is a major cause of the problems of the world. Without conscription, the government could not plunge into insane military adventures like Viet Nam. But for the war in Viet Nam, the United States might have reached an accord with the Soviet Union (perhaps even with China) beneficial to all

With less international tension, the military maniacs would have a much harder time diverting $80 billion from the important problems - saving the cities and the biosphere.

The far-out protest movements are able to attract support only because our own government is the worst enemy of young men The only way to reform the draft is to apolish it

Senator Mark Hatfield and many others in Washington are convinced that this is not only morally desirable but entirely practical

'We Ran Out Things to Talk About'

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Thirteen years ago today I was enrolled in a sex education class very similar to those being questioned by concerned par ents in Dist. 21

What I remember most about the class is that we ran out of things to talk about, and it got to be kind of dull

Sex education for me was part of a twice weekly science program offered to fifth graders at the Francis W Purker School in Chicago The system was a simple one. After a basic study of the reproductive system, any questions we could think up were answered in separate science classes for the boys and girls AS I READ the pros and cons presented in the recent discussions on the Dist 21 program it seemed to me that few of the parents involved had ever been in this kind of a class themselves If, like me, they could remember one, I think their attitudes might be different

Anne Slavicek

We studied sex when I was to just as we studied other subjects. All the "experimentation" which parents worry about wasn't very likely to happen to a bunch of 10 year old girls who thought boys were terrible-or to the boys either, for that matter, because they didn't have time to waste on "those stupid girls" By the time I was a teenoger and the whole thing began to seem somewhat refe- I told them what we had discussed in scivant. I figured I knew it all.

THE THINGS THAT were happening to my friends and me were exactly what we had expected since we were 10, and rather than be intrigued or curious about the process of maturing, the whole thing seemed rather routine.

By the time those who were in the class had reached high school age they weren't led into any immoral activities by curios-I am not saving that sex education will eliminate normal sexuality, or keep teenagers from necking. What it did for my friends and me was to take the nastiness and intrigue out of the reproductive system. Sex was made a part of life, but not necessarily the most important part. SEX EDUCATION IN school opened up the lines of communication about the subject with my parents, As I reported to them what I had learned in other classes.

My parents still reminisce laughlingly about the time when we had guests for dinner and I announced that my science teacher said sexual intercourse took 15 Somehow, it was much simpler for me to tell them that, and for them to explain later that the time limit wasn't quite that fixed, that it would have been for another 10 year old to ask his parents the question

Not all sex education is good. Some of the materials used by educators certainly can and should be questioned by parents as to what information and moral attitudes it will leave with their children. WHAT I AM saying is that the concept

WRITERS will continue to make predictions on sporting events from the World Series to the Beaumont Bean Cooking contest for as long as sporting events remain a part of our daily life.

There is one thing that you have probably noticed about sports writers' predictions. They nearly always go with a long shot; they rarely pick the favorite.

Three factors dominate a sports writer's decision when making a prediction. First, if the sports writer picks the favorite and it wins, the reader says, "So what, the ner the sports writer predicted was supposed to win anyway.

Second, if the sports writer picks a long shot and it doesn't come in a winner, the reader says, "Well, that's all right, the leng shot wasn't supposed to

And third, if the sports writer picks a long shot and it does win, the writer hopes the reader will say, "Hey, that guy knows a thing or three. He must really be in the know to pick the winner nobody else pick-

Well, it is that time of year for the Indianapolis 500 and I'd sure hate to miss out on all the predicting action, so that's ed."why this column will involve my prediction for the May 30 extravaganza.

 Naturally enough, those three factors are weighing upon my long awaited (?) prediction. Before we get into that item, let's review the race and the drivers. Andretti would have to be the favorite

Early last week it appeared that Mario with A. J. Foyt runnerup, Andretti was zipping Andy Granatelli's STP turbocharged Ford around the two-mile oval over 171 miles per hour. Foyt was getting his Coyote-Ford over 169 m.p.h.

Bobby Unser, last year's winner, was complaining about his Lola-Offenhauser saying. "They've built so much dependability into it, there's no sped." Bobby's brother. Al. was doing well with his Lola-Ford: Joe Leonard's Pratt & Whitney Lotus was up and coming; Roger McCluskey, Foyt's teammate, was over 168 m.p.h. ps was Gordon Johncock, But when all was said and done, it looked bey Lotus was up and coming; Roger McCluskey, Foyt's teammate, was ever 168 m.p.h. as was Gordon Johncock, But when all was said and done, it looked like Andretti was the favorite. Then late lastweek, Andrett; crashed, escaping with minor burns, Foyt got his Coyote up over 172 mils per hour and suddenly Foyt, the winner in 1961, 1964 and 1967, was the new favorite. Despite Bobby Unser's complaining (or did his crew listen?) Bobby qualified for the No. 3 position on the Indianapolis grid. Al Unser broke his leg last week and so Parnelli Jones is seeking a new driver for his car. With qualifying quickly approaching, Andretti, Granatelli, Colin Chapman and company began getting their Brawner-Turbocharged Ford back in shape. This is the same car which Andretti drove to victory at the Hanford 200 on April 13.

Foyt, as exepcted, nabbed the pole position Saturday. Andretti had the second best time with Bobby Unser third. The second row will have Mark Donahue in a Lola-Offenhauser, Johncock in a Gerhardt-Offenhauser and McCluskey in a

Other notable qualifiers were Lee Roy Yarbrough of stock car racing fame, Dan Gurney in his own Eagle-Ford, Joe Leonard (who holds the qualifying time record which he set last year in a Granatelli turbine), Lloyd Ruby who has more than 3,000 miles of Indianapolis competition and Dems Hulme, the Can-Am champion. Missing was Graham Hill, a member of the Granatelli team, who was away at Monaco. Hill will qualify this week.

Before Andretti crashed last week, he seemed to be an odds-on favorite. Bob McKee of Palatine, who builds Can-Am and Formula 'A' cars. said. "Andretti has everything going for him. He has the fastest car with that new Lotus. I think that Andretti will go gun-ho from the start. I'll tell you, his car goes like the devil. If his car sticks together, he should win it."

Hank Froshaug, who has covered the racing scene from Sebring (Fla) to Riverside (Calif.), said, "It will take a good man and a good car to win it and it looks like Andretti has it. A lot of things can happen, but it does look like Andretti."

A veteran follower of the European circuit. including Monaco, Spa and Nuburgring, noted, "It has to be Andretti."

There was, however, one hard core supporter for Foyt in Chuck Otterson, a racing enthusiast who writes for the Palm Beach Post-Times. "To me," he said, 'when the chips are down, when there is a big race to be won, I have to go with A. J. Foyt. He has proven through the years that he can win the big ones. He is one of the most versatile drivers around, he can drive anything. There are going to be a lot of top drivers and some good machines in the race, but I have to put my money on Foyt." Otterson, it should be noted, was quoted before Andretti's crash last week, as was McKee and Froshaug.

At this time Foyt does appear to have the edge on Andretti. Foyt will be going all-out for a victory this year. . .the same as he did in 1961. As you may recall, in 1964 and 1967 Foyt sat back and waited for everyone to kill each other off before taking over the No. 1 spot. But this year it will be Foyt who will be attempting to lead from start to finish.

Andretti, it should be pointed out, is at the peak of his form, even though his car may not be.

Andretti gave the car he will drive Friford. In March at Sebring, he brought excitement and awe to the hardest-to-please racing fans in the world with an absolutely marvelous performance in a Ferrari which took second place. And, as everyone knew at Sebring, Ferrari did not figure to day an excellent ride in the win at Hanlast five hours, never mind 12 hours and a second place finish.

To me Mario Andretti knows his car (it is not all that bad a car, it's just not as good as the one he crashed), he knows he can win with it and he finally knows how to get 500 miles out of his machine.

I think that Foyt, in his eagerness for a big killing, may not finish the race. If he does, he'll win, but I don't think he

At this point comes my prediction and the three factors mentioned earlier on sports writers' predictions are crossing my mind. Foyt would be a logical choice. Graham Hill would be an ideal outside

Mario Andretti will win the Indianapolis

year sparking the Friday and Saturday programs and featuring the $40,000 added Better Bee Handicap on the grass and the $25,000 added Matt Winn 'Cap on the main course, mark the half-way juncture of the 1969 Balmoral spring meeting at Arlington

The 1 1/16 miles Better Bee, named after Balmoral president William S. Miller's fine stakes hero of not so many years ago, punctuates the holiday on Friday, while the 7 furlongs Matt Winn, honoring the founder of Lincoln Fields (now Balmoral) in Crete, Ill., headlines the Saturday card.

A host of stakes winners, including several made eligible for both the Better Bee and the Matt Winn, are numbered among the nominees to the two weekend head-

T. A. GRISSOM'S Miracle Hill, aiready bedded down, Happy Valley Farm's American Native, Harvey Peltier's speedy Listado and Bwamazon Farm's T.V. Commercial are listed a probable for both races, their connections electing to take a long look at the weights and possible comnetition before arriving at a decision.

Balmoral's Memorial Day attraction, the Better Bee this year, never fails to come up a corking good race.

Listed prominently among its roster of nominees is the fine distaffer, Ludham, who as recently as a week ago Saturday again underscored her love affair with Arlington's sprawling grass oval.

THE OCCASION was the $25,000 added Crete Handicap at one mile on the green and Ludham, taking command from Listado approaching the quarter pole, gamely survived a stretch-long challenge from James R. Chapman's Out the Window.

Ludham now is undefeated in three Arlington appearances - she won both the Modesty and the Matron on the turf last summer. Should the Better Bee weights not be to trainer Frank Wright's liking, he may reserve the speedster for the upcoming Danada Handicap, also on the grass here but restricted to fillies and

Out the Window, the Cinderella hero of last summer's Arlington season when he crashed national headlines with a victory in a division of the July 4th Stars & Stripes 'Cap, is winless in 11 starts this year but his near-misses have earned his connections a pretty penny. His recent form also suggests he'll take a lot of beating

Miracle Hill, a hard-running son of Hillsborough, won both the Letellier and New Orleans Handicaps this past winter at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans, more recently was runner-up in the Ben Ali 'Cap

THE WEST COAST invader, Palestin, who was a good second in the Arcadia Handicap at Santa Anita, and the El Monte stakes here there, Terrible Tiger, the latter property of Mrs. W. C. Christmas, also dot the Better Bee roll-call

The Illinois-bred Abe's Hope, who's always capable of throwing in a top effort, also is eyeing the holiday headliner.

Saturday's Matt Winn may lure Listado, best remembered for his thumping victory in the Oaklawn Handicap, also Mrs. Elizabeth Brisbine's Info, smashing winner of last summer's Plympia Handicap here at Arlington Park.

American Native, a double stakes hero at Sportsman's this spring, also is a Matt Winn eligible, as are Michael G. Phipps duo of Master Bold and Lithiot.

Hobeau Farm's twosome of Beaukins and Misty Run, Rogers Red Top Farm's Renewed Vigor and Marion H. VanBerg's promising Jay Roam also are listed among the Matt Winn probables.

CLOSE PLAY. First baseman John Dempster of Palatine awaits throw from shortstop Roger Outcalt in an attempt to nail a Wheaton Central batter who had hit a slow infield roller. The throw was in time, Dempster made the catch and the runner was called out. Wheaton Central ended up winning the Friday afternoon Elk Grove Regional clash over the Pirates, 1-0.

Heartbreaking Finale

Harper Loses, 9-8

It was a very tough one to take.

Harper College's baseball team was breezing along last Friday in the final Northern Illinois Junior College League battle with Prairie State College holding a commanding 8-3 lead heading into the eighth inning.

Then the hosting Chicago Heights nine tallied three in the eight and two in the ninth to throw the game into extra innings.

In the bottom of the 11th another run crossed the Bloom High School plate and the Hawks closed out their first season with a heartbreaking 9-8 defeat.

Prairie State got on the boards first with two in the initial frame. Harper got one of them back in the second when Don Magnuson reached on an error and then came in on a double by John Michalisko. In the top of the fourth the Hawks exploded into the lead with five runs on four singles by Michalisko, Kevin Freund, Bill Erdmann and Jim Kenny plus a walk and Prairie State countered with one in the bottom of the fourth.

While Kevin Roeske was holding the hosts scoreless for the next three frames the Hawks tallied again. This time the scoring occurred in the seventh as the result of a delayed steal and an error. Magnuson was on third and John Nemanich was on first. After the steal was pulled off a throw went out of control and Nemanich came scampering home.

Prairie State got to Roeske in the seventh to cut the margin to 8-6. Roeske left after hurling seven and a third innings and Tom Koehler came on to hold the hosts down. But they scored two more to tie things up in the eighth at 8-all.

Then, in the 11th, a single, sacrifice and another single handed the Hawks their 13th unlucky loss of the season along with nine victories. They also finished 2-5 in the

The big man at the plate for the Hawks was Freund. He went three-for-four and also reached base twice on walks.

The increase in all services reported by the clinic in its annual report was made possible by additions to the staff and by using flexible treatment schedules.

The Northwest Municipal Conference has gone on record to oppose extension of downstate tollways at the expense of toll-way users in the local area. A resolution was adopted by the conference Friday that states member communities object to financially encumbering the Northwest Tollway for extension of the East-West Tollway or any other new tollroad

The resolution is a slap at Donald R. Bonniwell, Tolt Highway Commission chairman, who has proposed mortgaging current highway bonds to build more toll-

"THE LEGISLATURE, by legislation enacted in 1953, promised the people of Illinois that upon retirement of the bonded indebtedness, the Northern Illinois Tollway system would become a freeway," the resolution reads. Similar resolutions of opposition, based on one adopted by the Village of Glencoe. have been adopted by Wheeling, Barring-

3rd District legislators. Katz is sponsor of a defeated house bill that would have required any new bonds for tollways be paid off only from revenues of those tollways. "THE PROPOSAL TO further encumber the Northwest Tollway would result in an undue and discriminatory burden being placed upon the residents of cities and villages adjacent to or relient upon the Northwest Tollway, including the conference area," the resolution reads.

The bride is the former Joyce Christensen, daughter of former Arlington Heights residents, the Charles M. Christensens of Des Plaines. The groom is the son of the John Jacksons of Beaver Falls, Pa.

The couple exchanged vows at 4:30 p.m. in Trinity Lutheran Church, Des Plaines, before Rev. Mark G. Bergman.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Carolyn Christensen, as matron of honor, and Mrs. Nancy Loch and Miss Mildred Balhuis as bridesmaids. Their floor-length gowns were of aqua chiffon with petals accenting the empire waists, and they carried cascades of aqua tinted carnations.

Moon Trip Completed

ABOARD USS PRINCETON - Apollo 19's astronauts streaked safely to a South Pacific splashdown Monday, ending an eight-day mission that took them to less than 10 miles of the moon's surface and proved America can land there in July.

"We are in great shape," Thomas P. Stafford radiced an anxious world as he. Eugene A. Cernan and John W. Young floated down by parachute in their space-ship the final few feet from their 750,000mile journey.

No New Trial For Ray

MEMPHIS - Criminal Court Judge Arthur Faquin yesterday turned down a request for a new trial by James Earl Ray, the admitted killer of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Faquin ruled that Ray "knowingly, intelligently and properly" pleaded guilty to the King slaying during his trial March 10. After accepting a prearranged 89-year prison sentence. Ray changed his mind and said his lawyer had pressured him into pleading guilty.

OK Agriculture Funds

SPRINGFIELD - The House Approprintions Committee yesterday approved and sent to the House floor the $15.2 miltion budget for the Department of Agriculture for the next fiscal year.

Democrats said they will amend the bill in the House to cut some of the appropriation. The budget contains $1.2 million in federal funds.

OPENING DAY of the Little League season in Schaumburg is celebrated by these young men in gray flannel suits who participated in Saturday's Little League Parade, This group of ballplayers is sponsored by the Schaumburg Iranworks. Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher threw out the first ball to start the 1969 season for the junior baseballers. All were anxious for the order to "play ball."

A meeting between a local citizens group and Metropolitan Sanitary District officials today is expected to clear the air over a protest involving what is termed offensive odors coming from the district's plant off Irving Park Road in Schaumburg Township. The two parties will meet at 2 p.m. today with Hanover Park Mayor Richard Baker in the sanitary district's office in Chicago. The odor problem apparently stems from exidation pends at the sanitary district's plant site in the village of Hanover Park.

MORE THAN 700 signatures have been collected on petitions protesting the foul odors, according to Mrs. James Reeves. one of the coordinators of the citizens committee.

Mrs. Reeves lives about two blocks east of the sewage treatment works blamed as the source of the unpleasant odors.

Committee members say the plant is located near the Hanover Highlands School and Little League baseball diamonds, and that fumes are endangering the health of children and families. A group of concerned citizens met last Saturday in Hanover Park, and the meeting with sanitary district officials was subsequently arranged. OUR MEETING with the district officials should be an informative one for both groups," said Mrs. Reeves.

Petitions protesting the odors were placed in a local shopping center, and signatures also were collected in door-to-door solicitation, Mrs. Reeves said.

According to Mrs. Reeves, the odors "come and go, depending on how strong the wind is blowing."

"Everyone is aware of the problem," she added, "and there is no shortage of active workers. Some are more eager to help than others because they live closer to the sanitary district plant."

According to Ben Sosewitz of the sanitary district, there have been some problems with the oxidation pends, but corrective steps were taken to eliminate any

Day Camp To Include Girls

"This is our first reat attempt to begin the 'family' concept of YMCA Programing," said Bill Phillips, Y-Camp Chairman for the Twinbrook YMCA.

Phillips was commenting on the opportunity for younger girls (Grades one through three next year) to be a part of the Y-Day Camp Program this summer.

"The need for day-time activities is certainly there," Phillips said.

"We know there are nearly 3,000 girls that would be eligible for this kind of summer experience.

"MANY PERSONS in our community do not understand that the YMCA has served women and girls for many years; in fact the national average is close to 30 per

"Our fast growing communities have a real need for YMCA activities for all of our youth. Our plans are to expand the Y-Camping Program in the future to include residence camps, caravans and even co-ed camps for the girls as they grow older," Phillips added.

Summer School Draws 1,000

The Y offers Y-Camps for boys through Junior High School and is beginning girls camping with the Y-Day Camp this sum-

Each session of Y-Camp is eight days long, spread over two weeks and features an adventure trip, parents' campfire, a cook-out and regular camp activities.

THERE ARE TWO sessions in July and one in early August. "To give a real person al approach, we have carefully screened the leaders for maturity," Phillips said, "and no group will be larger than seven campers.'

Phillips said that many other Day Camping programs made the mistake of putting too many children in a group. 'Our smaller groups allow the children to develop closer friendships with the other campers . . . and with the leader, which is one of the main purposes of the program."

Registrations are still being accepted by mail and at the Twinbrook Y-Office, 11 E. Schaumburg Road, Schaumburg. The phone number is 894-8500.

"Each camper gets a free T-Shirt when they register," Phillips said.

materials fee of $5 per child.

The church was organized five years ago by its present pastor, Rev. Wayne McArthur. The congregation has about 100 families and the average church school attendance is 80 to 90 children.

THE CONGREGATION plans to start the first phase of construction at the end of this year or early in 1970. The church will be built on a five-acre site at the northwest corner of Schaumburg and Springinsguth roads adjacent to the Levitt Sheffield Park development.

The fund raising crusade will be directed by Rev. Wesley McKelvey of the Methodist Church Board of National Missions. Dr. McKelvey has more than 30 years experience with the National Board as a crusade director.

Co-Chairmen of the fund drive are Richard Vincent and Dean Wooden. Subcommittee chairmen are Evan

Harris, leadership gifts; Mrs. Ray Reid, fellowship; David Sterling, spiritual emphasis; Mrs. Gordon Mullins, publicity and John Budko, visitation. The building committee for the new church, headed by Budko, has hired the architectural firm of Eichsteadt-Narcisi of Roselle to design the building. This will be the first church designed by the firm, which has done extensive work, both residential and commercial, in Illinois and out-of-state.

Groundbreaking for the new building, which will house worship, fellowship and educational space, will take place late this fall or early next spring, with completion of the building approximately nice months later.

Registrations are still being accepted for summer school, according to Robert Deem, director for the Elgin School Dist. t 46 summer program

The number of students enrolling for summer school has dropped off considerably from previous yars which has caused cancellation of some classes while thi entering closure of others.

Nearly all classes, elementary as well as secondary, still have room for more students, Deem stated

An appeal has been sent to principals and counselors of junior and senior high schools and prospective teachers of summer courses to encourage students contemplating summer school to enroll before

Farm Bureau Backs Annexation Bill

Meet With Sanitary Dist.

by MARY DRESSER

Farm interests in the Cook County area have decided to support House Bill 1241, thereby reversing their original decision to oppose the bill allowing annexation of unincorporated territories by ordinance.

The bill's sponsor, State Rep. Eugene Schlickman R-Arlington Heights, haddled with nursery owner Carl Klehm and Gordon Fox, executive director of the Cook County Farm Bureau Saturday and emerged from the see on with the blessings of the farmer's group.

According to Fox, there had been confusion about a section of the bill covering annexation of farm land.

SINCE IN COOK County there is no zoning specified for agricultural land, the Farmer's Bureau was under the impression farm and truck garden land could be annexed involuntarily to villages.

Fox says letters were sent May 20 to nine Cook County senators in an effort to defeat the bill which has passed the state house of representatives.

Only one senator has responded to the first letter, Sen. John Graham (R-3rd District. Barrington). Graham came out last week opposing the bill as an attempt to violate the freedom of the individual.

Fox says the State Farm Bureau supported the bill, but because Cook County had no zoning for agriculture the Cook County Farm Bureau was seriously con-

SCHLICKMAN GAVE Fox, and nursery owner Klehm a copy of the bill to prove that the clause "agricultural use" had been included to protect farm interests. "We thought at first it would mean forcing farm land into a city when a farm wouldn't use city services," Fox told the Herald. "However, studying the bill we found we would have the choice of not going into (a city). The bill doesn't make farm annexation mandatory.'

The Cook County Farm Bureau represents 7,320 farmers who own 4,264 in Illinois. Of these 4,264 farms, 1,008 are in Cook County and comprise 104,000 acres. Some of this land is not in use, but 86,000 acres are now planted for crops and 7,000 for vegetables.

The bill is now under fire from homeowner's groups in unincorporated areas including Prospect Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove.

The Euclid-Lake Homeowner's Association in Prospect Heights, sparked by vocal Mrs. Marie Caylor, intends to send representatives to Springfield to testify against the bill during Senate hearings.

MRS, C. E. POTTER, secretary of the Pinehurst Manor Association in Palatine has also expressed opposition to the bill saying the bill is "taking away our basic right of choice."

In a recent letter to the Herald, Schlickman stressed several points of disagreement with a May 15 story.

The bill was not submitted to the House last year by Schlickman and denied the governor's signature, Schlickman con-

"The bill was approved in committee (principally by Democratic votes), but I purposely held the bill at second reading in the house because of the concern of another suburban legislator, and the Municipal League would not come up with an amendment to allay his fear

Schlickman also calls attention to the fact that the bill requires notice of proposed annexation be sent to property owners by certified or registered mail in addition to a legal notice.

The deadline for getting the bills in the mail is June 1, Hartmann said.

"WE'LL HAVE TO work on Memorial Day to get them all out on time," Mrs. Hartmann said.

Whenever possible, both bills for property owners are enclosed in one envelope in order to save on postage. According to Hartmann, this sorting and mailing process takes a lot of time.

The township collector explained that real estate bills are filed according to an index number while personal property statements are filed alphabetically. These two bills must then be matched for mail-

He was a scrawny kid, just 18 and nearly blind.

He wasn't much good at anything. He was a loser. A cripple. A pain on the unemployment chart. A burden on society.

A misfit whose chance for making something of himself weren't worth a plug nick-Or so people thought.

But the kid had guts. And he was determined. He was a scrapper, and he had speed.

He was a winner and for 20 years he was hell on wheels . . . wooden wheels.

He came to be known as king of the track and the fastest man in the world on If you follow roller derby competition.

you might remember him. His name is Sammy Skobel. SAMMY'S THE tough little guy who fought his way up from the bottom. The blind boy who skated his heart out, after it was busted twice, and went on to be named to the Roller Derby Hall of Fame in 1952, at the age of 25.

"A winner is never a quitter and a quitter never wins," said Sammy. "And remember, a pat on the back is only 18 inches above a kick in the seat. My father small shop so nimbly, you'd swear he was told me that when I was a boy and I've never forgotten it.

Sammy and speed are synonymous. On skates, he's been clocked at 42 miles an hour around a wooden track. He holds the world's record for the mile too: two minutes, 33 seconds flat.

He set the record Marcy 28, 1958, in New York's 14th Regiment Armory, shattering the old world record, which stood for 18 years, by 3.6 seconds.

"I had a funny feeling in my stomach before the race. Almost like I knew I was going to set the record. I felt the adrenalin pumping into my system and after I made my final lap I collapsed."

BESIDES HIS family and skating, Sammy is also interested in helping others like himself, the blind.

"I've had this handicap as long as I can remember. When I was a kid growing up, my parents never let me feel handicapped. They treated me just like any other kid, making me work in my father's grocery

A record budget of $7,545,237 has been proposed for Wheeling-Buffalo Grove School Dist 21 for the 1969-70 fiscal year beginning July 1.

The proposed budget, released Monday by the administrative staff of Dist. 21, exceeds last year's budget of $5,455,610 by more than $2 million.

Total revenue for the district for the year has been estimated at $6,680,962. Asst. Supt. John Barger said the difference will be made up by tax anticipation warrants and loans from the $39,000 working cash fund.

Student enrollment in Dist. 21 schools has been growing steadily in recent years and larger budgets have been necessary to keep the schools from bursting at the seams, he said. Student enrollment has been climbing at the rate of 18 per cent a year, Barger said.

"TOTAL ENROLLMENT is 6,977 now, compared with 5,654 in June of 1958," Bar-

expected next fall."

Two new elementary schools, Booth Tarkington and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, are scheduled to open this fall and 70 new teachers have been hired to staff them. A breakdown of the proposed budget retrict's educational fund. A total $3,814,600 will be used for teachers' salaries and $76,500 will be for administrators' salaries. Other estimated expenditures include: building fund, $385,000; bond and interest fund, $522,962; transportation, $130,000; municipal retirement, $65,000; and site veals that $5,064,275 will go into the disand construction, $1,309,000. The proposed budget is now available for inspection by the public at the Dist. 21 administrative center, 999 Dundee Road, and will be voted on by the school board at a public hearing June 28.

'There is no fat in this budget," said Barger. "In drawing it up, the administration tried to accurately and realistically estimate the needs of the schools and the income required to meet these needs."

Twp. GOP Wants Agnew For Speaker

by JOAN KLUSSMANN

The Wheeling Township Republican Party will attempt to obtain Vice President Spiro Agnew as the featured speaker for its October dinner-dance.

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman and Dwight Walton, just named 1969 dinner chairman, will visit Washington soon to determine if Agnew will be able to attend the fourth annual ball scheduled for Oct.

The largest single fund-raiser of the year for the Republican organization, the dance will again take place at the Mid-America Room of Arlington Park. Walton said that attendance will be limited to 2,-000 persons, and tickets, priced at $12.50, sold on a "first-come, first-serve" basis.

MAIN SPEAKER at last year's dinner was Sne. Robert Griffin (R-Mich.). Illinois Senators Everett M. Dirksen and Charles Percy also attended.

Walton, who served as Ad Book Chairman in 1968, is now contacting township residents to firm up committee assignscients. A member of the IBM district staff. Walton was elected to the Arlington Heights village board in April.

Chairman Douglas Cargill and other members of the board said the B-4 ordinance as it stands is too restricting.

After careful examination of the other classifications the board decided to recommend the addition of the following businesses: Dry cleaner-pick up station, laundry, launderette and launderomat, retail stores and services, department, furniture and home appliance, professional offices and services, indoor theaters and car washes with holding area.

The vote was unanimous on the eight additions.

Sammy grew up in Chicago and graduated from Crane Tech High School. "My teachers were good to me. All my tests were taken after school. They had to administer them orally."

Sammy always loved sports.

"I couldn't see well enough to play (ootball or baseball. And I couldn't make much of a career out of track. I used to run the mile in four minutes, 22 seconds . . but I could never afford to win because I needed someone out in front of me to follow."

SAMMY BEGAN SKALING PROTESSIONALLY when he was 18.

"I was dared into trying out for a roller derby team at school. So me and a friend went to the Chicago Coliseum to try out. I was handed a contract, but I couldn't read it. So I went into a phone booth where I thought no one would see me, pulled out my magnifying glass and began to scan it. But someone saw me. And when they found out I couldn't see, they cancelled the

Another Breakfast

Set By Evangelists

The third in the series of "For Men Only" Breakfasts, sponsored by the Evangelism Committee, will be held at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. June 1.

Cooks for the day will be Duane Johnson and Don May of Buffalo Grove.

The breakfast topic will be a social statement issued by the Lutheran Church in America at its second biennial convention, entitled "Race Relations." The statement reads in part:

"The current racial revolution has thrust the church into a time of travail and perplexity, but also of opportunity and hope. Injustice, which for a long time was either ignored, rationalized, or mutely borne, is now seen more clearly for what it actually is. Injurious discrimination based on race is a violation of God's created order, of the meaning of redemption in Christ, and of the nature of the church."

Digest of House Bill 1241

Pastor Surprised

The congregation of St. John United confirmation class, Mrs. Karla Stelling

(Recause of the furor over HB 1241, introduced March 25, 1969 by State Rep. Engene Schlickman, R. Vrlington Heights, the Herald is presenting a digest of the bill and its recent amendments.)

IIB 1241 adds a new section to the Muna pal Code allowing cities and villages within counties over 50,000, to annex configuous immensporated territory, provided certain procedures are used

This bill will apply to municipalities in both Cook and DuPage counties because both these councies exceed the 50,000 population mark

The bill also sets ground rules for objections to annexation and allows annexed territory to disanner within five years under certain conditions

Municipalities may annex unincorporated territory, the bill specifies, by in-

mating court proceedings

The process of annexation will be t - the municipality adopts an ordinance saying it desires to annex certain territory and gives a legal description of the territory

2 - The ordinance of annexation is filed with the clerk of the Circuit Court for the

3 - The ordinance must have a twothirds vote of the corporate authorities. 4 - The ordinance shall be published offi-

etally and filed 34 days after publication. A map of the boundaries of the annexing municipality must be presented to show the unincorporated area is contiguous. THE BILL ALSO provides that at least three-fourths of the unincorporated territory must have been subdivided into lots or blocks or be devoted to commercial or inand the fact that notice is not received shall not be grounds for defense in annexation proceedings.

The notice shall be filed with the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, any county planning commission or the Plan Commission of the town annexing.

THE MUNICIPALITY shall pay a $10 filing fee plus a service fee.

Any person, firm or corporation residing in either the annexing municipality or the unincorporated territory to be annexed or any parties owning property within one mile of the property to be annexed may file objections with the clerk.

The nine possible objections are: 1 - The unincorporated territory is not contiguous to the annexing village or city. 2 - The ordinance is not adopted under proper procedures by the village or city. 3 - The description of the unincorporated area is incorrect.

4 - The area does not fit the bills' description allowing annexation of territory subdivided into lots or blocks, devoted to commercial or industrial use...

5 - Annexation of the unincorporated territory will be incompatible with the proper development of the municipality....

6 — The city or village will not be able to furnish needed services.

7 - The annexation will not be in the best interest of the municipality, the unincorporated area or the surrounding area.

8 - The objector's property is on the edge of the territory, does not fit into the legal description of areas to be annexed and he contends the exclusion of his land from the annexation will not ruin the whole annexation plan.

The newest amendment inserted in the bill, No. 9, the "Prospect Hieghts Amendment" negotiated between Schlickman and Prospect Heights representatives excludes "all or part of an area bonded together by common or unique characteristics, presently recognized or identified as a separate community, over 65 per cent residential, and contiguous to more than 2 munici-

If the court agrees the objections are valid, it will order elimination of the objector's land from the territory to be annexed...

THE COURT WILL then issue an order decreeing the territory annexed. The court order may not include less than 50 per cent of the territory originally described in the ordinance.

If the conditions have not been filed by at least 50 per cent of the territory the court will dismiss the case.

The court order can be appealed to the Appellate Court of the district in which the property to be annexed is located.

Territory annexed under this law may be disconnected within five years after annexation. Disannexation petitions must show that the municipality has been unable or unwilling to furnish municipal services to the If the area is successfully disannexed it shall not be exempt from taxation for the purpose of paying any debts contracted by the city or village prior to the filing of the petition for disconnection.

Make Room for Parking

The twin siles and office buildings lecated between the railroad tracks and Northwest Highway, west of Vail Avenue, will be torn down soon to make room for additional commuter parking spaces.

Owned by Arlington Elevator and Material Co., the buildings are vacant and unused at the present time

W. F Wagner, general lease agent for the Chicago and North Western Ry., said that if the elevator company doesn't begin destruction of the buildings by Monday, the railroad would arrange for their demo-

The Arlington Elevator lease expired in February and railroad officials sent termination letters to Walter and David Heinemann, who purchased the business in 1963, explaining that the railroad was canceling the lease. The lease states that cost of the destruction will be paid by Arlington Elevator.

WHEN NO WORD was received from the Heinemanns by April 25, the railroad's legal department wrote to them, giving the company 30 days to comply with the destruction clause. The buildings and silos are still in place and the Heinemanns have not contacted the railroad. Wagner said the elevator company would be billed for all costs of destruction.

As soon as the buildings are down, the village plans to sign a lease with the railroad and improve and landscape the land for parking.

The silos, which were used for coal, gravel and sand in the past, were erected in the 1920s. They shared the land with seven other silos which were demolished

by SUE CARSON

A record budget of $7,545,237 has been proposed for Wheeling-Buffalo Grove School Dist. 21 for the 1989-70 fiscal year beginning July 1.

The proposed budget, released Monday by the administrative staff of Dist. 21, exceeds last year's budget of $5,455,610 by more than $2 million.

Total revenue for the district for the year has been estimated at $6,686,962. Asst Supt John Barger said the difference will be made up by tax anticipation warrants and loans from the $39,000 workung cash fund.

Student enrollment in Dist. 21 schools has been growing steadily in recent years and larger budgets have been necessary to keep the schools from bursting at the seams, he said. Student enrollment has been climbing at the rate of 18 per cent a year, Barger said.

"TOTAL ENROLLMENT is 6,977 now, compared with 5,654 in June of 1968," Barger said. "A similar jump in enrollment is expected next fall

Two new elementary schools, Booth Tarkington and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, are scheduled to open this fall and 70 new teachers have been hired to staff them. A breakdown of the proposed budget reveals that $5,064,275 will go into the district's educational fund. A total $3,814,600 will be used for teachers' salaries and $76,500 will be for administrators' salaries. Other estimated expenditures include: building fund, $385,000; bond and interest fund, $522,962; transportation, $130,000;

and construction, $1,309,000. The proposed budget is now available for inspection by the public at the Dist. 21 administrative center, 999 Dundee Road, and will be voted on by the school board at municipal retirement, $65,000; and site

a public hearing June 26. "There is no fat in this budget," said Barger. "In drawing it up, the administration tried to accurately and realistically estimate the needs of the schools and the income required to meet these needs '

The bill's sponsor, State Rep. Eugene Schlickman R-Arlington Heights, huddled with nursery owner Carl Klehm and Gordon Fox, executive director of the Cook County Farm Bureau Saturday and emerged from the session with the blessings of the farmer's group.

According to Fox, there had been confusion about a section of the bill covering annexation of farm land

SINCE IN COOK County there is no zoning specified for agricultural land, the Farmer's Bureau was under the impression farm and truck garden land could be annexed involuntarily to villages

Fox says letters were sent May 20 to nine Cook County senators in an effort to defeat the bill which has passed the state house of representatives.

Only one senator has responded to the first letter, Sen. John Graham (R-3rd District, Barrington). Graham came out last week opposing the bill as an attempt to violate the freedom of the individual. Fox says the State Farm Bureau supported the bill, but because Cook County had no zoning for agriculture the Cook County Farm Bureau was seriously con-

Twp. GOP Wants Agnew For Speaker

by JOAN KLUSSMANN

The Wheeling Township Republican Party will attempt to obtain Vice President Spiro Agnew as the featured speaker for its October dinner-dance.

State Rep Eugene F. Schlickman and Dwight Walton, just named 1969 dinner chairman, will visit Washington soon to determine if Agnew will be able to attend the fourth annual ball scheduled for Oct.

The largest single fund-raiser of the year for the Republican organization, the dance will again take place at the Mid-America Room of Arlington Park. Walton said that attendance will be limited to 2,-000 persons, and tickets, priced at $12.50, sold on a "first-come, first-serve" basis.

MAIN SPEAKER at last year's dinner was See. Robert Griffin (R-Mich.). Illinois Senators Everett M. Dirksen and Charles Percy also attended.

Walton, who served as Ad Book Chairman in 1968, is now contacting township residents to firm up committee assignenents. A member of the IBM district staff, Walton was elected to the Arlington Heights village board in April

"PM CONCERNED THE 13th District get the best possible representation," Hanlon said. "I'm not interested in contesting anyone. I'm for Mathewson because of his demonstrated ability and what he can do for the district."

Asked about the certain candidacy of Wheeling Township Committeeman and State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, Hanlon said Schlickman's entry would "help make it an interesting race.'

He said Mrs. Virginia MacDinald, former Wheeling Township committeewoman, also considered a likely congressional runner, is "a nice woman."

Mathewson said he has some good support developing in some Republican Township organizations and would likely be opening headquarters soon. Headquarters may be opened in Arlington Heights and in each district township, depending on the availability of office space, the candidate said.

Mathewson, 35, is former press secretary to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie. He resigned May 14 to enter the congressional race. Donald Rumsfeld resigned the congressional post effective midnight Sunday to become director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

HANLON WAS co-chairman of the successful campaign of Tom Houser in 1962 for Wheeling Township committeeman. Houser has also been called by the Nixon administration to serve as deputy director of the Peace Corps.

Hanion worked in Thomas Novotny's unsuccessful 1966 campaign for Township committeeman when Schlickman took the powerful position. He served as Arlington Heights village trustee from 1965 to 1967 then failed to get Caucus Party backing for reelection. As an attorney, he was engaged in corporate law and labor relations for 11 years before joining a real estate

"I respect all the announced and potential candidates," Hanlon stated in a prepared release. "But I think it is in the interest of the district to find the best, and believe Joe Mathewson is the best."

B-4 Zoning Is Expanded

Eight types of business were recommended for addition to the B-4 zoning ordinance at a Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals meeting Friday night at the village

Chairman Douglas Cargill and other members of the board said the B-4 ordinance as it stands is too restricting.

After careful examination of the other classifications the board decided to recommend the addition of the following businesses: Dry cleaner-pick up station, laundry, launderette and launderomat, retail stores and services, department, furniture and home appliance, professional offices and services, indoor theaters and car washes with holding area.

The vote was unanimous on the eight additions.

BOARD members reviewed the various businesses allowed under other classifications. They picked only those requiring a minimum of traffic ingress and egress, rather than making the B4 classification all-inclusive.

Areas of the village zoned B-4 are primarily along Dundee Road and along Milwaukee Avenue

The pole and ground sign ordinance was also discussed, but no decision was reached. Board members were in agreement that the pole sign ordinance would have to be clarified.

Cargill said, "The pole sign was a sign erected to direct the flow of traffic in and out of a business district and was not for the purpose of advertising products or services.

Cargill then instructed Village Attorney Paul Hamer to study the ordinance, and adjourned the hearing until 8:30 p.m. June

Another Breakfast Set By Evangelists

The third in the series of "For Men Only" Breakfasts, sponsored by the Evangelism Committee, will be held at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. June 1.

Cooks for the day will be Duane Johnson and Don May of Buffalo Grove.

The breakfast topic will be a social statement issued by the Lutheran Church in America at its second biennial convention, entitled "Race Relations." The statement reads in part:

"The current racial revolution has thrust the church into a time of travail and perplexity, but also of opportunity and hope. Injustice, which for a long time was either ignored, rationalized, or mutely borne, is now seen more clearly for what it actually is. Injurious discrimination based on race is a violation of God's created order, of the meaning of redemption in Christ, and of the nature of the church."

year, Barger said.

Total revenue for the district for the year has been estimated at $5,586,962. Asst. Supt. John Barger said the difference will be made up by tax anticipation warrants and loans from the $39,000 working cash fund.

Student enrollment in Dist. 21 schools has been growing steadily in recent years and larger budgets have been necessary to keep the schools from bursting at the seams, he said. Student enrollment has been climbing at the rate of 18 per cent a ger said. "A similar jump in enrollment is expected next fall."

Two new elementary schools, Booth Tarkington and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, are scheduled to open this fall and 70 new teachers have been hired to staff them. A breakdown of the proposed budget reveals that $5,064,275 will go into the district's educational fund. A total $3,814,600 will be used for teachers' salaries and $76,500 will be for administrators' naturies. Other estimated expenditures include: building fund, $385,000; bond and interest fund, $522,962; transportation, $130,000;

and construction, $1,309,000. The proposed budget is now available for inspection by the public at the Dist. 21 administrative center, 999 Dundee Road, and will be voted on by the school board at a public hearing June 26.

Twp. GOP Wants Agnew For Speaker

by JOAN KLUSSMANN

The Wheeling Township Republican Party will attempt to obtain Vice President Spiro Agnew as the featured speaker for its October dinner-dance.

State Rep Eugene F Schlickman and Dwight Walton, just named 1969 dinner chairman, will visit Washington soon to determine if Agnew will be able to attend the fourth annual ball scheduled for Oct. The largest single fund-raiser of the year for the Republican organization, the dance will again take place at the Mid-America Room of Arlington Park. Walton said that attendance will be limited to 2,-000 persons, and tickets, priced at $12.50, sold on a "first-come, first-serve" basis

MAIN SPEAKER at last year's dinner was Sne. Robert Griffin (R-Mich.). Illinois Senators Everett M Dirksen and Charles Percy also attended

Walton, who served as Ad Book Chairman in 1968, is now contacting township residents to firm up committee assignments A member of the IBM district staff, Walton was elected to the Arlington Heights village board in April.

Asked about the certain candidacy of Wheeling Township Committeeman and State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, Hanlon said Schlickman's entry would "help make it an interesting race

He said Mrs. Virginia MacDinald, former Wheeling Township committeewoman, also considered a likely congressional runner, is "a nice woman "

Mathewson said he has some good support developing in some Republican Township organizations and would likely be opening headquarters soon. Headquarters may be opened in Arlington Heights and in each district township, depending on the availability of office space, the candidate said.

Mathewson, 35, is former press secretary to Gov. Richard B Ogilvie. He resigned May 14 to enter the congressional race. Donald Rumsfeld resigned the congressional post effective midnight Sunday to become director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

HANLON WAS co-chairman of the successful campaign of Tom Houser in 1962 for Wheeling Township committeeman. Houser has also been called by the Nixon administration to serve as deputy director of the Peace Corps.

Hanton worked in Thomas Novotny's unsuccessful 1966 campaign for Township committeeman when Schlickman took the powerful position. He served as Arlington Heights village trustee from 1965 to 1967 then failed to get Caucus Party backing for reelection. As an attorney, he was engaged in corporate law and labor relations for 11 years before joining a real estate

"I respect all the announced and potential candidates," Hanlon stated in a prepared release. "But I think it is in the interest of the district to find the best, and I believe Joe Mathewson is the best."

B-4 Zoning Is Expanded

Eight types of business were recommended for addition to the B-4 zoning ordinance at a Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals meeting Friday night at the village

Chairman Douglas Cargill and other members of the board said the B-4 ordinance as it stands is too restricting.

After careful examination of the other classifications the board decided to recommend the addition of the following businesses: Dry cleaner-pick up station, laundry, launderette and launderomat, retail stores and services, department, furniture and home appliance, professional offices and services, indoor theaters and car washes with holding area.

The vote was unanimous on the eight

BOARD members reviewed the various businesses allowed under other classifications. They picked only those requiring a minimum of traffic ingress and egress, rather than making the B-4 classification all-inclusive.

Areas of the village zoned B-4 are primarily along Dundee Road and along Milwaukee Avenue.

The pole and ground sign ordinance was also discussed, but no decision was reached. Board members were in agreement that the pole sign ordinance would have to be clarified

Cargill said, "The pole sign was a sign erected to direct the flow of traffic in and out of a business district and was not for the purpose of advertising products or ser-

Another Breakfast Set By Evangelists

The third in the series of "For Men Only" Breakfasts, aponsored by the Evangelism Committee, will be held at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights from 7:30 to 8 30 a m. June 1.

Cooks for the day will be Duane Johnson and Don May of Buffalo Grove.

The breakfast topic will be a social statement issued by the Lutheran Church in America at its second biennial convention, entitled "Race Relations." The statement reads in part.

"The current racial revolution has thrust the church into a time of travail and perplexity, but also of opportunity and hope. Injustice, which for a long time was either ignored, rationalized, or mutely borne, is now seen more clearly for what it actually is Injurious discrimination based on race is a violation of God's created order, of the meaning of redemption in Christ, and of the nature of the church."

Robert Jackson and George Miller are co-chairman of the congregation's Evangelism Committee.

For the second time in less than two years, Elmer Gleich has petitioned Palatine for annexation of the 66-acre golf course at Hicks, Baldwin and Northwest Highway.

in February, 1968, two 12-story apartment buildings were proposed. But plans were changed to four 6-story buildings when he brought his request for rezoning to the county board last fall.

Just about a year ago in the midst of strong objections from homeowners living in Willow Wood, Reseda and North View subdivisions, Palatine's board of trustees rejected Gleich's petition for annexation.

It was then the local developer sought rezoning for the $12-million development from county officials, although the land is almost totally surrounded by Palatine.

While the matter was deferred, it was reported Palatine officials and Gleich were negotiating terms of annexation to the village. Last week however, both the developer and village officials said they were not close to reaching an agreement.

No Quick Success for Farm

by MARTHA KOPER

(Today's story ends a feur-part series on the proposed Ridgeway Farm for adolescent boys in Palatine Township.)

Even if Ridgeway Farm is allowed to begin operating in Palatine Township, it probably will take two or three years before its success can be determined.

That means the farm will accommodate a maximum of 30 boys while the program is being tried and tested during the first three years, according to Henry Distelhorst, director of public relations and development for Ridgeway Hospital, which is proposing the farm facility.

Contrary to the opinions of several local residents opposed to the farm, bringing 100 boys to Ridgeway would spoil its status as a pilot project.

"Furthermore, our financing for the next three years only includes a staff and facilities for 30 boys," Distelhorst said.

ESTIMATES ARE THAT IT will cost about $700 a month to keep a boy at Ridgeway Farm. But the fee to be charged will be adjusted to meet individual capabilities. "Sometimes, it might be possible to get about $400 in county aid," Distelhorst said.

In addition, farm officials hope to receive some money from foundation grants, personal donations, and state funds. "But in any case, it probably will be at least five years before the farm can be selfsustaining," he said.

He added, "Hopefully the day will come when there will be 100 children staying at the farm, but that's about seven or eight

Farm Bureau Backs Annexation Bill

by MARY DRESSER

Farm interests in the Cook County area have decided to support House Bill 1241, thereby reversing their original decision to oppose the bill allowing annexation of unincorporated territories by ordinance.

The bill's sponsor, State Rep. Eugene Schlickman K-Arlington Heights, huddled with nursery owner Carl Klehm and Gordon Fox, executive director of the Cook County Farm Bureau Saturday and emerged from the session with the blessings of the farmer's group.

According to Fox, there had been confusion about a section of the bill covering annexation of farm land.

SINCE IN COOK County there is no zoning specified for agricultural land, the Farmer's Bureau was under the impression farm and truck garden land could be annexed involuntarily to villages. Fox says letters were sent May 20 to nine Cook County senators in an effort to defeat the bill which has passed the state house of representatives.

Only one senator has responded to the first letter, Sen. John Graham (R-3rd'District, Barrington). Graham came out last week opposing the bill as an attempt to violate the freedom of the individual.

Fox says the State Farm Bureau supported the bill, but because Cook County had no zoning for agriculture the Cook County Farm Bureau was seriously concerned

owner Klehm a copy of the bill to prove that the clause "agricultural use" had been included to protect farm interests.

'We thought at first it would mean forcing farm land into a city when a farm wouldn't use city services," Fox told the Herald. "However, studying the bill we found we would have the choice of not going into (a city). The bill doesn't make farm annexation mandatory.'

The Cook County Farm Bureau represents 7,320 farmers who own 4,264 in Illinois. Of these 4,264 farms, 1,008 are in Cook County and comprise 104,000 acres. Some of this land is not in use, but 86,000 acres are now planted for crops and 7,000 for vegetables.

Fox says he is now at work drafting the letter to recind the bureau's earlier objection.

"THE FIRST LETTER went out in haste," he says. "They didn't realize there were safeguards in the bill putting the burden of proof on the municipality," Schlickman told the Herald.

He says he pointed out to bureau representatives there were nine conditions the annexing municipality had to meet in order to bring an unincorporated area under municipal jurisdiction.

The bill is now under fire from homeowner's groups in unincorporated areas including Prospect Heights, Palatine, and Elk Grove.

The Euclid-Lake Homeowner's Association in Prospect Heights, sparked by vocal Mrs. Marie Caylor, intends to send representatives to Springfield to testify against the bill during Senate hearings.

MRS. C. E. POTTER, secretary of the Pinehurst Manor Association in Palatine has also expressed opposition to the bill saying the bill is "taking away our basic right of choice.'

In a recent letter to the Herald, Schlickman stressed several points of disagreement with a May 15 story.

The bill was not submitted to the House last year by Schlickman and denied the governor's signature, Schlickman con-

"In 1967 (not 1968) I introduced a bill almost identical to HB 1241 at the request of the Illinois Municipal League on the very last day for the introduction of bills,"

he says. "The bill was approved in committee (principally by Democratic votes), but I purposely held the bill at second reading in the house because of the concern of another suburbar legislator, and the Municipal League would not come up with an amendment to allay his fear."

Schlickman also calls attention to the fact that the bill requires notice of prop-sed annexation be sent to property owners by certified or registered mail in addition to a legal notice.

years away. We could never have more than 100 boys without destroying the basic principle of open space at the farm."

About attaching a covenant to the land limiting the number of boys to 30 which some neighboring homeowners have suggested, Distelhorst conceded, "That would be a little too limited. But if a covenant means gaining approval from the local residents, I think the board would consider limiting capacity to 50 or 60 boys."

LOCAL RESIDENTS also were interested in stricter security measures at the farm But Distelhorst said, "Obviously if the boy is capable of attending school, he doesn't need to be locked beyond a gate when he returns to the farm."

Ridgeway's staff is structured to provide trained personnel to live with the boys in addition to supervisors of a 24hour program

Several local objectors to the farm are certain enough that Palatine Township is the wrong location that petitions against the project were signed by 546 people.

But perhaps they are unaware the 11acre tract on Northwest Highway near Dundee Road will be used as a recreation area for patients of Ridgeway Hospital, even if the necessary county zoning is denied.

Since title to the land was transferred to Milroy Blowitz, hospital attorney, a few weeks ago, patients have been bused to the farm for daily activities.

"WE'D PROBABLY INCREASE the use of the farm on a daily basis, so we'd get the most possible use out of it." Distethorst said Construction of a swimming pool had started, but was stopped by county officials because the contractor neglected to apply for a building permit But we expect to get that matter ironed out so patients can enjoy swimat the farm, in addition to horseback riding and the other activities in existence,"

It is part of Ridgeway Hospital's philosophy to provide outside activities for patients as much as possible. Before the farm was purchased, field trips only extended as far as a major league basebali game or a visit to the museum.

"Now we have a place where they can enjoy normal outdoor activities like other boys have in their own back yard." Distelborst said

So from all present indications, whether or not the county zoning board decides to allow the beginning of Ridgeway Farm, there will be some teens making use of the wide open spaces of Palatine Town-Palatine American Legion Auxiliary's delegate to this year's Illini Girls State convention will be Dehra Lyn Arnold.

A student at Palatine High Wchool, she's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J Arnold, 153 East Norman Drive.

"Debra is well qualified to represent Palatine Unit No. 690 at the state convention," said Mrs. Louis Ribar, girls state chairman for the local Legion Aux-

With an outstanding student record at school, she was elected secretary of the student council and also is a member of the National Honor Society As a Winston Park School student, she won the eighthgrade American Legion Award.

FROM JUNE 17 TO 24. Debra will join more than 500 other Illinois high school juniors on the MacMurray College campus at Jacksonville for the 1969 session. The responsibilities and privileges of citizenship will be emphasized.

The high school girls will spend a week of concentrated effort in the citizenship program, which includes serving as local civic officials, county officials and state legislators.

Details of each governing operation are emphasized so that each girl returns home with more information on how elections are conducted, development of party platforms, and functions of governing bodies.

MANY WELL-KNOWN governing officials will visit Illini Girls State while Debra is there, and she will have the opportunity to hear them speak and meet some of them.

Two girls will be selected from the group to attend Girls Nation held in Washington, D. C. where they witness federal legislative, judicial and executive government in action.

Susan Rosenberg has been selected as an alternate delegate to represent Palatine at Illini Girls State. Last year, Vicki Shelton of Fremd High School was the local representative.

Teachers Set Contract Vote

High School Dist. 214 teachers will be asked Thursday to approve a 1969-70 salary and benefit package that sets a salary range of $7,400 to $15,540.

School board members were briefed last night on the package proposal in the door session. They will probably meet to approve it next Monday.

The salary package calls for a $700 raise from last year's $6,700 starting salary. More teachers will get a larger raise

Jack Martin, assistant to Supt. Edward H. Gilbert, said the average Dist. 214 teacher, with eight years' experience and a master's degree, will get a 14 per cent raise under the new salary scale. The salary level for that teacher this year was $10,553, compared to $11,248 proposed for

The salary package was negotiated between school board negotiators and bargainers for the Teachers Association.

DURING THE PROCESS both sides gave ground.

Teachers Association representatives started by asking an $8,500 starting salary for a beginning teacher with a bechelor's degree and a $9,000 starting salary for a beginning teacher with a master's.

The settlement calls for a beginning teacher with a master's degree to start in one of Dist. 214's six schools - Arlington, Prospect, Forest View, Wheeling, Elk Grove, or Hersey - at a 10-month salary of $8,140.

The current salary scale offers $13,800 -double the starting salary - to a 15-year teacher with 30 credit hours beyond the master's degree level. The 1969-70 salary package up for approval by the teachers Thursday will offer double the starting salary - $14,800 - to a 15-year teaching veteran without the extra credit past a

The package calls for higher extra-duty pay for teachers who supervised extracurricular activities. The highest extraduty pay level, $1,100, will go to head football, head basketball and head debate

Teachers, irritated at a public which thinks that because the total staff-student ratio in Dist. 214 is 19-1, the average class load is 19 students, successfully included in their bargaining demands a stipulation that from now on Dist. 214 report teacherstudents loads as well.

BOARD MEMBERS were able to set the door ajar regarding merit pay, a long-time preference of the school board.

One of the points in the bargaining package calls for an "ad hoc" committee to be appointed by the board of education to work with the Teachers Association "for the purpose of devising an improved pro-

How that evaluation might be applied to salaries were not indicated.

The agreement will provide more substitutes for teachers away from their classes to attend professional meetings and workshops and will provide more funds to pay for the trips and professional membership.

The agreement allots $10,000 to each high school for professional expenses other than Illinois Education Association dues. About half of this, $50 per teacher, will be spent as the teacher chooses.

ROSEMARY CHILSTROM, Forest View Teacher who headed the teachers' negotiating team, said her group had 36 meetings during their months of bargaining.

She said the package includes some benefits for other school employes.

The agreement calls for Dist. 214 to pay hospitalization and medical insurance for all school personnel working 30 hours a week or more and to also pick up the tab for medical insurance coverage of the employes' dependents.

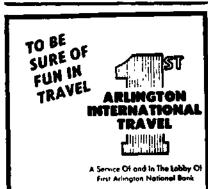

Life insurance benefits will also be increased, with the district paying $5,000 worth of life insurance and teachers able to pick up another $5,000 of coverage at their own option.

The argeement increases summer school pay by about $100.

The package calls for higher extra-duty pay for teachers who supervised extracurricular activities. The highest extraduty pay level, $1,100, will go to head football, head basketball and head debate coaches.

BOARD MEMBERS were able to set the door ajar regarding merit pay, a long-time preference of the school board.

(No-Fine) Time at Library

by BOB ZANIC

When was the last time you looked under your mattress, inside the fruit bin of your refrigerator, or under your car

Not for quite a while you say?

Well, Rolling Meadows Librarian Virginia Connell suggests that now would be a most opportune time for you to check those places, plus a thousand more around your home. Chances are you will probably find a book you thought was returned to the library eons ago.

If you do happen to coem up with a book or two, you can stop worrying about fines and embarrassing explanations. Why? Because you will be able to take advantage of the Rolling Meadows Public-Library's first and last Amnesty Week, May 31 through June 7.

In 1953 he was traded to the Chicago

Westerners, the team that turned him down twice because he was blind, and he stayed with them until he retired 12 years

During Sammy's last game, May 8, 1965,

he was high scorer and went out in high style. "I made 11 points and scored a grand slam on the last play of the game

LIBRARY PATRONS with overdue books will be able to place them in a bookbin in the library with no questions asked and no fines charged. This week of amnesty is held in honor of city hall. It is the first time in the nineyear history of the library that an amnesty period has been scheduled. Miss Connell cautioned that this is a

the dedication of the new Rolling Meadows

"one time only" grace period to help celebrate the city hall dedication.

"On June 9 anyone can start out free and clear," she said. "There are 800 books missing from the library and this means that approximately 300 users are being deprived of books. We are not in the busiof making money from books. We do not like to charge fines. We are here to provide the users of the library with books."

THE LIBRARY COLLECTS between $950 to $1,000, annually in fines and the amount is rising. Records show that a book due in June 1964 is the longest overdue book. That was the first year that records were kept.

Carelessness and thoughtlessness are probably the biggest reasons why books never get returned to the library. Adults are the greatest offenders, and non-fiction books those most frequently missing.

Although missing books are a serious problem, they often are a source of humorous incidents.

For example, after a winter's thaw, many books begin to pop up across the countryside like daisies in May. One book, totally unrecognizable as such, had been left in such a strategic position that a bird had built its nest between chapters three and four.

One youngster, on his way to the library to return an overdue book, stopped off at the candy store and spent the "fine money" and then conveniently disposed of the

HOWEVER, WHEN the library reported that the book was not returned, the youngster "confessed" and did "time" helping at the library, at the suggestion of his par-

"I find it easier to forgive the children than the adults," Miss Connell said. "But I do admire the courage of those adults who return and admit they were wrong.' Keeping in mind that everyone makes mistakes, even library personnel, the stacks and entire library are double-

He Was Scrappy, and Hell on Wheels

by BRAD BREKKE

He was a scrawny kid, just 18 and nearly blind.

He wasn't much good at anything. He was a loser. A cripple. A pain on the unemployment chart. A burden on society. A misfit whose chance for making something of himself weren't worth a plug nick-

Or so people thought. But the kid had guts. And he was deter- eyes.

He was a winner and for 20 years he was hell on wheels . . . wooden wheels. He came to be known as king of the track and the fastest man in the world on skates. If you follow roller derby competition, you might remember him. His name is Sammy Skobel.

SAMMY'S THE tough little guy who fought his way up from the bottom. The blind boy who skated his heart out, after it was busted twice, and went on to be named to the Roller Derby Hall of Fame in 1952, at the age of 25.

"A winner is never a quitter and a quitter never wins," said Sammy, "And remember, a pat on the back is only 18 inches above a kick in the seat. My father told me that when I was a boy and I've never forgotten it.'

Sammy and speed are synonymous. On skates, he's been clocked at 42 miles an hour around a wooden track. He holds the world's record for the mile too: two minutes, 33 seconds flat.

He set the record Marcy 28, 1958, in New York's 14th Regiment Armory, shattering the old world record, which stood for 18 years, by 3.6 seconds.

"I had a funny feeling in my stomach before the race. Almost like I knew I was going to set the record. I felt the adrenalin pumping into my system and after I made my final lap i collapsed."

FOUR YEARS AGO Sammy hung up his skates to devote more time to his family. And today, the 44-year-old former roller derby star and his wife, Vee, operate a small restaurant and catering service at 34 S. Main St., Mount Prospect.

Sammy Skobel's Hot Dogs Plus they call it. A hot dog on skates is their emblem. And according to Sammy, who hopes someday to obtain a franchise on it, business is thriving.

Legally, Sammy is blind. When he was four years old, he was stricken with scarlet fever, a disease from which he recovered, but which left him with only 10 per cent of his vision in both

"Fever destroyed the optic nerves. People ask if maybe glasses or an operation might help. Well, I do have glasses. Magnifying glasses for reading. But as far as restoring my vision, forget it. When your sight is that far gone, there isn't much you can do. You have to feel your

"But I've accepted that and instead of being able to see, I've developed my sense of hearing and touch to the point where it's almost like being able to see."

Sammy may be blind. But you'd never suspect it. Today he hustles around his small shop so nimbly, you'd swear he was still on skates.

BESIDES HIS family and skating, Sammy is also interested in helping others like himself, the blind.

"I've had this handicap as long as I can remember. When I was a kid growing up, my parents never let me feel handicapped. They treated me just like any other kid, making me work in my father's grocery store washing walls. And believe me, I didn't like it, either.

"Anything you set your mind to do, if you're determined, you can do. I like to talk to groups of blind people and carry my story to them. "If I can do it, they can do it. You have to do it yourself. Nobody is going to do it for you. But once you start feeling sorry for yourself, you're sunk," he said.

Sammy grew up in Chicago and graduated from Crane Tech High School. "My teachers were good to me. All my tests were taken after school. They had to administer them orally."

Sammy always loved sports. "I couldn't see well enough to play football or baseball. And I couldn't make much of a career out of track. I used to run the mile in four minutes, 22 seconds . . . but I could never afford to win because I needed someone out in front of me to fol-

SAMMY BEGAN skating professionally when he was 18.

"I was dared into trying out for a roller derby team at school. So me and a friend went to the Chicago Coliseum to try out. I was handed a contract, but I couldn't read it. So I went into a phone booth where I thought no one would see me, pulled out my magnifying glass and began to scan it. But someone saw me. And when they found out I couldn't see, they cancelled the

"Then, later, I went up to Milwaukee and tried out again for the same team, the Chicago Westerners. But when they saw me, they remembered me and turned me thumbs down again, not because of my ability, but because of my handicap.

"Well, that busted my heart. I remember going to the men's locker room after that and crying my eyes out for an hour. But I got over it and a few months later went to Chattanooga to try out for another Team, the Brooklyn Red Devils. And this time I made it.''

Sammy skated for the Red Devils from 1945 to 1951. In 1952 he switched over as captain for the New York Chiefs and that same year skated his way into the Roller Derby Hall of Fame.

A TROPHY WAS presented to him at that time by the Long Island Star-Journal and today it rests high on a display shelf in his restaurant, along with other trophies and a collection of photos taken of him during his career.

tire opposing team, five men, which in this case was the New York Chiefs. Well. w beat 'em 39 to 34. And I don't have to tell you what those last five points meant." In 1949 Sammy suffered his worst roller derby injury, seven broken ribs. "One of my teammates didn't remember the play or that he was supposed to be blocking for me. And as a result I got hit hard and it Scrapping Sammy said he used to see the crowds and other skaters as blurs, but claims he could identify the opposition by studying their body contour and skating in the league," he said. WHEN SAMMY retired to spend more time with his family, he went to work for the Ekco Container Co. in Wheeling as cafeteria manager. Then in January, 1967, he opened his own business in Mount Pros-

style. "I got so I could identify everyone

"The roller derby was good to me. There are a lot of good days to look back on, plus $15,000 a year, which it used to pay. But now I have a business to look after," he said.

Sammy and Vee also have two sons. Sammy, Jr., 14, and Steve, 17. Sammy Skobel. Some used to say he wasn't much good at anything. But he was

Dist. 214 OKs Student Deans

The High School Dist. 214 School Board, recognizing increased problems of student discipline in all its schools, last night voted to establish the position of dean of students in each of its six schools.

The board did so over the objections of members Richard Stamm and Frank Bergen, both of Mount Prospect. Bergen said he favored the position, but wanted the deans' duties defined.

Stamm suggested that the administration's description as to what the deans would do could be better solved by giving each school's police counselor more assis-

Board members said the position would pay between $13,000 and $19,000 for a 10month year. Principals in each of the schools - Arlington, Prospect, Forest View, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Hersey will begin interviewing possible applicants dean of students will work under the assistant principal for administrative services, generally fielding problems involving student infractions of rules. He said that Dist. 214 is experiencing the same problems as every other high school across the nation -- "increased absenteeism and increased truancy" among students.

The student militancy movement has added to the problem, he said. He also said that Dist. 214 expects to be able to keep better track of all its students as it experiments with a variety of flexible scheduling arrangements, including modular scheduling, independent study and the ministrators will cost the district $175,000 over the current budget. He said the inereases are based on a building-by-building evaluation of each administrator's 'contribution to the district'

Stamm, who served on the board committee that helped work out the administrators' salaries, added, "We hope we've given each principal the tools he needs to develop building leadership in the manner he sees fit."

Bergen, another member of that committee, added, "It is conceivable that a man might stay where he is this year or be rammed to the top of the salary range. We think this merit proposal will be a stimulus.

No Quick Success For Farm

by MARTHA KOPER

Even if Ridgeway Form is allowed to begin operating in Palatine Township, it probably will take two or three years before its success can be determined

That means the farm will accommodate a maximum of 30 boys while the program is being tried and teste, during the first three years, according to Henry Distelhorst, director of public relations and development for Ridgeway Hospital, which is proposing the farm facility

Contrary to the opinions of several local residents opposed to the farm, bringing 100 boys to Ridgeway would spoil its status as a pilot project

Furthermore, our financing for the next three years only includes a staff and facilities for 30 boys," Distelliorst said

ESTIMATES ARE THAT IT will cost about $700 a month to keep a boy at Ridgeway Farm. But the fee to be charged will be adjusted to meet individual capabilities "Sometimes, it might be possible to get about $400 in county aid," Distellorat said

In addition, farm officials hope to receive some money from foundation grants, personal donations, and state funds. "But in any case, it probably will be at least five years before the farm can be selfsustaining.' he said

He added, "Hopefully the day will come when there will be 100 children staying at the farm but that's about seven or eight years away We could never have more than 100 boys without destroying the basic principle of open space at the farm."

About attaching a covenant to the land limiting the number of boys to 30 which some neighboring homeowners have suggested. Distelliorst conceded, "That would be a little too limited. But if a covenant means gaining approval from the local residents. I think the board would consider limiting capacity to 50 or 60 boys."

LOCAL RESIDENTS also were interested in stricter security measures at the farm But Distellerst said, "Obviously if the boy is capable of attending school, he doesn't need to be locked beyond a gate when he returns to the farm

Ridgeway's staff is structured to provide trained personnel to live with the boys in addition to supervisors of a 24hour program

Several local objectors to the farm are certain enough that Palatine Township is the wrong location that petitions against the project were signed by 546 people

But perhaps they are unaware the 11acre tract on Northwest Highway near Dundee Road will be used as a recreation area for patients of Ridgeway Hospital, even if the necessary county zoning is de-

Since title to the land was transferred to Milroy Blowitz hospital attorney, a few weeks ago, patients have been bused to the farm for daily activities "WE D PROBABLY INCREASE the use of the farm on a daily basis, so we'd get the most possible use out of it," Distelborst soul

Construction of a swimming pool had started but was stopped by county officials because the contractor neglected to apply for a building permit

But we expect to get that matter froned out so patients can enjoy swimat the farm in addition to horseback rid ing and the other activities in existence."

he said It is part of Ridgeway Hospital's philosophy to provide outside activities for patients as much as possible. Before the farm was purchased field trips only extended as far as a major league baseball game or a visit to the museum "Now we have a place where they can enjoy normal outdoor activities like other hoys have in their own back yard," Dis-telhorst said So from all present indications, whether or not the county zoning board decides to allow the beginning of Ridgeway Farm, there will be some teens making use of the wide open spaces of Palatine Town-ing skills and will develop a responsible attitude toward the promotion of safe conduct habits. They will also receive training in lifesaving and water safety techniques.

OK Agriculture Funds

SPRINGFIELD - The House Appropriations Committee yesterday approved and sent to the House floor the $15.2 miltion budget for the Department of Agriculture for the next fiscal year.

Democrats said they will amend the bill in the House to cut some of the appropriation. The budget contains $1.2 million in federal funds.

Teenager Found Dead

DOWNERS GROVE - A teenager was found dead in his home yesterday a few hours after he had been arrested on a give-sniffing charge.

Richard C Aszman, 17, and two other youths were arrested by Naperville police Sunday night after Lisle police said the boys had been seen trying to purchase glue in Lisle DuPage County authorities said the cause of the death had not been determined. Aszman was charged with inhaling an intoxicating compound and re-

Police Pinned Down

CAIRO - Snipers riddled the police station in this racially troubled city with more than 100 shots yesterday.

Police were pinned down in the station for about 15 minutes in the worst outbreak since National Guardsmen were sent here last month. No one was seriously injured during the barrage, but Fire Chief Lewis Edwards was nicked in the back by flying

Seek Black Militants

EAST ST. LOUIS - If the city can get the money from the federal government, 25 black militants will be hired by the police department as "investigative and interpretive aides."

Their pay would be about $80 per week, and their duties would include helping in police-community relations programs, working in recreational programs, and maintaining order at youth gatherings. The idea is that of the Illinois Office of Human Relations.

Crime Loans Revealed

WASHINGTON - The Small Business Administration said yesterday its investigators have turned up four new cases of loans made to persons connected with organized crime.

The discoveries have prompted SBA administrator Hillary J. Sandoval, Jr., to order stricter screening of applicants including FBI and securities and Exchange Commission name checks on officers of firms asking for SBA loans. The SBA declined to disclose the names of the borrowers, except one against whom legal action has been initiated.

The Mount Prospect Village Board, meeting as a committee of the whole last night, decided to delay a decision on the controversial West Park site until further studies have been conducted.

More than 150 residents, divided in their support for the park district's proposed park site and retention basin and the zoning request for builder Salvatore DiMucci, represents the multi-faceted problem that confronts village officials.

"The issue is essentially a zoning probtem, whether or not to trade a park site for apartments. The flood control issue is consequential, a secondary problem that has become entwined with the zoning problem and any consideration must involve every facet," sald Mayor Robert Teichert.

The board suggested that further studies be conducted by the plan commission, the village board and the park district before any decision is rendered on the merits of the issue.

The board suggested that DiMucci must present a formal petition to the plan commission for a rezoning request in that the issue is essentially a zoning problem. Harold Ross, plan commission member, indicated that the first available date for a public hearing on the DiMucci site could not be set until late July unless the builder requested a special hearing.

plan commission can not divorce the park area from the rest of the community. We have to decide that if by granting apartments to DiMucci, will we be setting a precedent for more apartments north of Golf Road. We must consider the DiMucci land in regard to the surrounding property," said Ross.

Teichert added that the board cannot bypass the plan commission on the zoning money by conducting their study.

Teacher Pay Hike

School teachers in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will be given an $800 to $1,400 pay increase next year, with the average falling

The new salary schedule, which was approved by the school board at a special meeting last night, means taxpayers will have to shell out almost $200,000 for teacher salaries next fall, $130,000 more than budgeted.

The schedule itself was negotiated by a salary committee of the board and the Mount Prospect Education Association.

Beginning salary for an inexperienced teacher will go from $6,400 to $7,000 and at the top of the scale, a teacher with a master's degree (plus 30 semester hours advanced study) and 18 years experience will get $14,000, $900 more than this year.

DURING DISCUSSION of the new schedule, board member Leo Floros said, "I think the budget is excessive. Every year the cost of salaries spirals upward. I thought last year was the catch up time. What's our Story this year?"

Ralph Walberg told Floros the salaries were not excessive, in his opinion, and that the district had to remain competitive with other districts.

Dist. 214 OKs Student Deans

The High School Dist. 214 School Board, recognizing increased problems of student discipline in all its schools, last night voted to establish the position of dean of students in each of its six schools.

The board did so over the objections of members Richard Stamm and Frank Bergen, both of Mount Prospect. Bergen said he favored the position, but wanted the deans' duties defined.

Stamm suggested that the administration's description as to what the deans would do could be better solved by giving each school's police counselor more assis-

Board Member Leah Cummins of Elk Grove Village said she shoped one of the key roles played by the new dean will be to not only handle student violation of school rules, but to figure out why the vil-

The board also okayed administrative salary increases for 1969-70 and heard proposals for salary increases for custodial, food service and other noninstructional GILBERT SAID THE increases to administrators will cost the district $175,000 over the current budget. He said the increases are based on a building-by-building evaluation of each administrator's "contribution to the district."

Stamm, who served on the board committee that helped work out the administrators' salaries, added, "We hope we've given each principal the tools he needs to develop building leadership in the manner

Bergen, another member of that committee, added, "It is conceivable that a man might stay where he is this year or be rammed to the top of the salary range. We think this merit proposal will be a stimulus."

SAMMY'S THE tough little guy who fought his way up from the bottom. The blind boy who skated his heart out, after it was busted twice, and went on to be named to the Roller Derby Hall of Fame in 1952, at the age of 25.

Sammy and speed are synonymous. On skates, he's been clocked at 42 miles an hour around a wooden track. He holds the world's record for the mile too: two minutes, 33 seconds flat. He set the record Marcy 28, 1958, in New

for better pay in one direction and the appointment of Paul Neuhauser to the board of education in another.

Mrs. Toni Schmidt, assigned the public relations task of the district Teachers' Council, said Monday afternoon that about 85 per cent of the district teachers have signed petitions urging the board to appoint Neuhauser.

They are behind the third-running candidate in the April 12 elections even before a vacancy exists on the board. The objective | 6,400 cast in the April 12 election, and

MRS. SCHMIDT SAID that 18 of the district's 19 schools, as well as the teachers councit, have Neuhauser petitions circulating. Nine petitions have been given to board Pres. Dr. Allen Sparks thus far, she said, and another nine were to be delivered last night.

Neuhauser trailed Harold Harvey and Blanchard by 26 votes out of more than Others mentioned for possible appointment include several members of the School-Community Council, other April 12 candidates, and former board president Gene Artemenko.

Selection of a board member from the School-Community council would not be without precedent. Prior to his election in April, board member Al Domanico was named from the council, of which he was Artemenko served until the vote was canvassed. He chose not to seek reelection, he said, because of a lack of time and personal commitments.

Neuhauser is a special agent in the intelligence division of the Internal Revenue Service, assigned to investigation of tax fraud cases.

He was endorsed by The Herald prior to the April 12 board of education election and again last Thursday for appointment to the Blanchard vacancy.

The board has the choice of appointing until the next election, or calling a special election.

One other area legislative body, the Elk Grove Park District, appointed the second highest vote getter to a vacancy on their panel last month, and there has been interest in appointing by the same technique a village trustee in Elk Grove Village, if and when Trustee Eugene Keith resigns.

Firm Hand Needed For Discipline

Russell W Steger, a member of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois, said some schools are "choking on their own permissiveness," and caleld for a firm hand in dealing with university discipline problems

Steger made his remarks last night at the Elk Grove Township GOP meeting. He is a newly elected member of the board of trustees of the university.

The trustee touched on the continuing problems a major university faces in dealing with student confrontations and dissident groups on campuses.

"We have 31,000 students at the University of Illunois. We've got to talk to them and have them talk to us because if they ever get out of control, no one will ever be able to control 31,000 people."

Steger related the problems of university trustees in dealing with black mili-

"THE BLACK PROBLEM is with us It is a constant thing and one which requires our attention. Currently, the university administration feels the defensive way is the best way. In other words, don't give them too many things to get excited about.

Steger was talking about the university's Project 500, in which several bundred black students were recruited by the University of Illinois. Before the project, the university had some 300 black students out of its 31,000 enrollment.

Later militant action by the black students on campus caused repercussions to the university.

"Let's face it," Steger said. "Ghetto kids have one hell of a tough problem. A kid from a Chicago ghetto coming to the University of Illinois has to have an emotional problem when faced with college life. We must find some way to provide them the opportunities they desperately

"But on the other hand," Steger continued, "I'll close the place down before I'll let anyone intimidate me."

Steger generally took a hard line against student militancy and against faculty members who side with students against the administration and trustees. The trustee said, however, that he recognized that students from minority groups must be given some help toward a university education.

STEGER TERMED members of the Students for a Democratic Society a "shallow group," but reiterated that the honest problems of the black community must be faced by the university.

The trustee pledged that new reforms at the university will return the full power of discipline to the nine trustees of the university "who represent 5 million tax-La Page 1 mans payers."

I was handed a contract, but I couldn't read it So I went into a phone booth where I thought no one would see me, pulled out my magnifying glass and began to scan it. But someone saw me. And when they found out I couldn't see, they cancelled the contract.

"Then, later. I went up to Milwaukee and tried out again for the same team, the Chicago Westerners. But when they saw me, they remembered me and turned me thumbs down again, not because of my ability, but because of my handleap.

"Well, that busted my heart. I remember going to the men's locker room after that and crying my eyes out for an hour. But I got over it and a few months later went to Chattanooga to try out for another Team, the Brooklyn Red Devile. And this time I made it."

Sammy skated for the Red Devils from 1945 to 1951. In 1952 he switched over as captain for the New York Chiefs and that same year skated his way into the Roller Derby Hall of Fame.

In 1953 he was traded to the Chicago Westerners, the team that turned him down twice because he was blind, and he stayed with them until he retired 12 years

During Sammy's last game, May 8, 1965, he was high acorer and went out in high style. "I made 11 points and scored a grand slam on the last play of the game for five points. I got it by passing the entire opposing team, five men, which in this case was the New York Chiefs. Well, we beat 'em 39 to 34. And I don't have to tell you what those last five points meant."

Moon Trip Completed

ABOARD USS PRINCETON - Apollo 10's astronauts streaked safely to a South Pacific splashdown Monday, enting an eight-day mission that took them to less than 10 miles of the moon's surface and proved America can land there in July.

"We are in great shape," Thomas P. Stafford radioed an anxious world as he. Eugene A. Cernan and John W. Young floated down by parachute in their spaceship the final few feet from their 750,000mile journey.

No New Trial For Ray

MEMPHIS - Criminal Court Judge Arthur Faquin yesterday turned down a request for a new trial by James Earl Ray, the admitted killer of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Faquin ruled that Ray "knowingly, intelligently and properly" pleaded guilty to the King slaying during his trial March 10. After accepting a prearranged 99-year prison sentence, Ray changed his mind and said his lawyer had pressured him into pleading guilty.

OK Agriculture Funds

SPRINGFIELD - The House Appropriations Committee yesterday approved and sent to the House floor the $15.2 million budget for the Department of Agriculture for the next fiscal year.

Democrats said they will amend the bill in the House to cut some of the appropriation. The budget contains $1.2 million in federal funds.

Teenager Found Dead

DOWNERS GROVE - A teenager was found dead in his home yesterday a few hours after he had been arrested on a glue-sniffing charge.

Richard C. Aszman, 17, and two other youths were arrested by Naperville police Sunday night after Liste police said the boys had been seen trying to purchase glue in Liste. DuPage County authorities said the cause of the death had not been determined. Assman was charged with inleased on $1,000 bond

Police Pinned Down

CAIRO - Snipers riddled the police station in this racially troubled city with more than 100 shots yesterday.

Police were pinned down in the station for about 15 minutes in the worst outbreak since National Guardsmen were sent here last month. No one was seriously injured during the barrage, but Fire Chief Lewis Edwards was nicked in the back by flying

Seek Black Militants

EAST ST. LOUIS - If the city can get the money from the federal government, 25 black militants will be hired by the police department as "investigative and interpretive aides."

Their pay would be about $80 per week. and their duties would include helping in police-community relations programs, working in recreational programs, and maintaining order at youth gatherings. The idea is that of the Illinois Office of Human Relations.

Crime Loans Revealed

WASHINGTON - The Small Business Administration said yesterday its investigators have turned up four new cases of loans made to persons connected with organized crime.

The discoveries have prompted SBA administrator Hillary J. Sandoval, Jr., to order stricter screening of applicants including FBI and securities and Exchange Commission name checks on officers of firms asking for SBA loans. The SBA declined to disclose the names of the borrowers, except one against whom legal action has been initiated.

The board suggested that DiMucci must present a formal petition to the plan commission for a rezoning request in that the issue is essentially a zoning problem. Harold Ross, plan commission member, indicated that the first available date for a public hearing on the DiMucci site could not be set until late July unless the builder requested a special hearing.

"In consideration of the problem the plan commission can not divorce the park area from the rest of the community. We have to decide that if by granting apartments to DiMucci, will we be setting a precedent for more apartments north of Golf Road. We must consider the DiMucci land in regard to the surrounding property." said Ross.

Teichert added that the board cannot bypass the plan commission on the zoning money by conducting their study.

Teacher Pay Hike

School teachers in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will be given an $800 to $1,400 pay increase next year, with the average falling

The new salary schedule, which was approved by the school board at a special meeting last night, means taxpayers will have to shell out almost $200,000 for teacher salaries next fall, $130,000 more than budgeted.

The schedule itself was negotiated by a salary committee of the board and the Mount Prospect Education Association.

Beginning salary for an inexperienced teacher will go from $6,400 to $7,000 and at the top of the scale, a teacher with a master's degree (plus 30 semester hours advanced study) and 18 years experience will get $14,000, $900 more than this year.

DURING DISCUSSION of the new schedule, board member Leo Floros said, "I think the budget is excessive. Every year the cost of salaries spirals upward. I thought last year was the catch up time. What's our Story this year?"

Ralph Walberg told Floros the salaries were not excessive, in his opinion, and that the district had to remain competitive with other districts.

Dist. 214 OKs Student Deans

The High School Dist. 214 School Board, recognizing increased problems of student discipline in all its schools, last night voted to establish the position of dean of students in each of its six schools.

The board did so over the objections of members Richard Stamm and Frank Bergen, both of Mount Prospect. Bergen said he favored the position, but wanted the deans' duties defined.

Stamm suggested that the administration's description as to what the deans would do could be better solved by giving each school's police counselor more assis-

Board members said the position would pay between $13,000 and $19,000 for a 10schools - Arlington, Prospect, Forest View, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Hersey will begin interviewing possible applicants right away.

SUPT. EDWARD H. GILBERT said the dean of students will work under the assistant principal for administrative ser-

Bergen, seizing on the suggestion that innovation may be adding to discipline problems, quipped, "Are we just opening up Pandora's Box a little bit?"

Board Member Leah Cummins of Elk Grove Village said she shoped one of the key roles played by the new dean will be to not only handle student violation of school rules, but to figure out why the vil-

lations took place and if possible correct

The board also okayed administrative salary increases for 1969-70 and heard proposals for salary increases for custodial, food service and other noninstructional

GILBERT SAID THE increases to administrators will cost the district $175,000 over the current budget. He said the increases are based on a building-by-building evaluation of each administrator's "contribution to the district."

Stamm, who served on the board committee that helped work out the administrators' salaries, added, "We hope we've given each principal the tools he needs to he sees fit."

Bergen, another member of that committee, added, "It is conceivable that a man might stay where he is this year or be rammed to the top of the salary range. We think this merit proposal will be a

He was a scrawny kid, just 18 and nearly blind.

He wasn't much good at anything.

He was a loser, A cripple. A pain on the unemployment chart. A burden on society. A misfit whose chance for making something of himself weren't worth a plug nick-

Or so people thought. But the kid had guts. And he was determined. He was a scrapper, and he had speed.

you might remember him. His name is Sammy Skobel.

SAMMY'S THE tough little guy who fought his way up from the bottom. The blind boy who skated his heart out, after it was busted twice, and went on to be named to the Roller Derby Hall of Fame in 1952, at the age of 25.

"A winner is never a quitter and a quitter never wins," said Sammy, "And remember, a pat on the back is only 18 inches above a kick in the seat. My father told me that when I was a boy and I've never forgotten it."

Sammy and speed are synonymous. On skates, he's been clocked at 42 miles an hour around a wooden track. He holds the world's record for the mile too: two minutes, 33 seconds flat.

He set the record Marcy 28, 1958, in New York's 14th Regiment Armory, shattering the old world record, which stood for 18 years, by 3.6 seconds.

"I had a funny feeling in my stomach before the race. Almost like I knew I was going to set the record. I felt the adrenalin pumping into my system and after I made my final lap I collapsed."

His wife, Jean Hanlon, was an unsuccessful candidate for village trustee in April, running without caucus support.

"I'M CONCERNED THE 13th District get the best possible representation," Hanlon said. "I'm not interested in contesting anyone. I'm for Mathewson because of his demonstrated ability and what he can do for the district."

Asked about the certain candidacy of Wheeling Township Committeeman and

Tom Hanlon, former Arlington Heights State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, Hanlon said Schlickman's entry would "help make it an interesting race."

Mathewson said he has some good support developing in some Republican Township organizations and would likely be opening headquarters soon. Headquarters may be opened in Arlington Heights and in each district township, depending on the availability of office space, the candi-

Teachers Back Neuhauser for Board

for better pay in one direction and the appointment of Paul Neuhauser to the board of education in another.

Mrs. Toni Schmidt, assigned the public relations task of the district Teachers' Council, said Monday afternoon that about 85 per cent of the district teachers have signed petitions urging the board to appoint Neuhauser.

They are behind the third-running cardidate in the April 12 elections even before a vacancy exists on the board. The objective

Teachers in School Dist. 59 are working is a seal currently held by George Blanteachers are citing that as the reason why chard, who has announced that he will resign on or about July 1 due to a company transfer

MRS. SCHMIDT SAID that is of the district's 19 schools, as well as the teachers council, have Neuhauser petitions circulating. Nine petitions have been given to board Pres. Dr. Allen Sparks thus far, she said, and another nine were to be delivered last night.

Neuhauser trailed Harold Harvey and Bianchard by 26 votes out of more than 6,400 cast in the April 12 election, and the should be named to succeed Blanchard. "The choice of the voters must be honored," the petition says.

Neuhauser also has gained support from the Forest View Parents' Study Committee, at odds with district administration over class sizes, administrative costs, and the transfer of school principal Thomas Warden.

HE BECAME THEIR favorite at the onset of meetings with administration and board members, which were broken off

Others mentioned for possible appointment include several members of the School-Community Council, other April 12 candidates, and former board president Gene Artemenko.

Selection of a board member from the School-Community council would not be without precedent. Prior to his election in April, board member Al Domanico was named from the council, of which he was president

Artemenko served until the vote was canvassed. He chose not to seek reelection, he said, because of a lack of time and personal commitments.

Neuhauser is a special agent in the intelligence division of the Internal Revenue Service, assigned to investigation of tax fraud cases.

He was endorsed by The Herald prior to the April 12 board of education election and again last Thursday for appointment to the Blanchard vacancy.

The board has the choice of appointing until the next election, or calling a special election.

One other area legislative body, the Elk Grove Park District, appointed the second highest vote getter to a vacancy on their panel last month, and there has been interest in appointing by the same technique a village trustee in Elk Grove Village, if and when Trustee Eugene Keith resigns.

Firm Hand Needed For Discipline

Russell W. Steger, a member of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois, said some schools are "choking on their own permissiveness," and calcid for a firm hand in dealing with university discipline problems.

Steger made his remarks last night at the Elk Grove Township GOP meeting. He is a newly elected member of the board of trustees of the university.

The trustee touched on the continuing problems a major university faces in dealing with student confrontations and dissident groups on campuses.

"We have 31,000 students at the University of Illinois. We've got to talk to them and have them talk to us because if they ever get out of control, no one will ever be able to control 31,000 people."

Steger related the problems of university trustees in dealing with black mili-

"THE BLACK PROBLEM is with us. It is, a constant thing and one which requires our attention. Currently, the university administration feels the defensive way is the best way. In other words, don't give them too many things to get excited about.

Steger was talking about the university's Project 500, in which several hundred black students were recruited by the University of Illinois. Before the project. the university had some 300 black students out of its 31,000 enrollment.

Later militant action by the black students on campus caused repercussions to the university.

"Let's face it," Steger said. "Ghetto kids have one hell of a tough problem. A kid from a Chicago ghetto coming to the University of Illinois has to have an emotional problem when faced with college life. We must find some way to provide them the opportunities they desperately

"But on the other hand," Steger continued, "I'll close the place down before I'll let anyone intimidate me."

Steger generally took a hard line against student militancy and against faculty members who side with students against the administration and trustees. The trustee said, however, that he recognized that students from minority groups must be given some help toward a university education.

STEGER TERMED members of the Students for a Democratic Society a "shallow group," but reiterated that the honest problems of the black community must be faced by the university.

The trustee pledged that new reforms at the university will return the full power of discipline to the nine trustees of the university "who represent 5 million tax#### payers." TO BE SURE OF FUN IN TRAVEL ARLINGTON INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL

"Well, that busted my heart. I remember going to the men's locker room after that and crying my eyes out for an hour. But I got over it and a few months later went to Chattanooga to try out for another Team, the Brooklyn Red Devils. And this time I made it."

Sammy skated for the Red Devils from 1945 to 1951. In 1962 he switched over as captain for the New York Chiefs and that same year skated his way into the Roller Derby Hall of Fame.

In 1953 he was traded to the Chicago Westerners, the team that turned him down twice because he was blind, and he stayed with them until he retired 12 years

During Sammy's last game, May 8, 1965, he was high scorer and went out in high style. "I made 11 points and scored a grand slam on the last play of the game for five points. I got it by passing the entire opposing team, five men, which in this case was the New York Chiefs. Well, we beat 'em 39 to 34. And I don't have to tell you what those last five points meant."

Pay Tribute to John Woods atier stood guard by the door, welcoming the guests, while Woods, Walsh, Hanson

by TOM WELLMAN

One of the basic ingredients for a successful testimonial banquet for retired Village Pres. John Woods was a Stetson hat.

The Stetson, which looks like a soft suburban-type cowboy hat, rested quietly on an overturned cardboard box in a corner Sunday afternoon at the Arlington Park Carousel restaurant. It belongs, of course, to 96-year-old Al Volz, Arlington Heights senior citizen.

Volz, who served as a trustee and as village president of Arlington Heights before you were born, is a segment of the history of the village. He attended the banquet, along with men like Eugene Schlickman, Gerald Marks and Jack Walsh - men of the present and future to honor John Woods

Voiz sat at the head table; he looked gray, but excited. When he was introduced, the audience of 500 persons applauded loudly, and in a steady, gravel voice. Al Volz paid tribute to Woods :

"MY FRIENDS, I'M very happy to be here Thank God I've lived to see what progress we've made in our village. In my opinion John Woods will be remembered as one of the best mayors we ever had and go down in history as such." The political hopefuls (like Marks), the former trustees (like Bill Moore), the pre-vey Carothers), and the friends (like Carl Mees), gave the old man a long, loud applause Most of the evening, however, belonged to John Woods. He and his family - his wife, Mary, and his daughters, Susan, 18.

THE TRIBUTES RANGED from family jokes to a "this-is-your-life" slide show arranged by Lester Ploetz to a series of speeches from men and women who have worked with Woods

Village Pres John Walsh Woods' successor, presented Woods with a congratulatory pluque "It is only a token," only a partial expression of the people's appreciation, Walsh said.

Walsh also said that proceeds above the cost of the banquet would be funneled into the Jonathan Woods Scholarship Fund at Arlington High School The scholarship honors Woods' son, killed in a traffic accident three years ago. State Reps. Eugene Schlickman and Eugenia Chapman, in a bipartisan effort, read a resolution passed by the Illinois

General Assembly. And, of course, there were the teleincluding messages from Gov. Richard Ogilvie and Sen. Charles Percy, honoring Woods' eight years of service to Arlington Heights and to the northwest suburbs. After the tributes, Woods came to the microphone. He said, "I really am moved and deeply appreciative of the tribute," but he presented his own special tribute to the men who worked with him.

He called Village Man. L. A. Hanson and Village Atty. Jack Slegel the "best in Illinois" and then, peering out into the darkened banquet hall, asked former trustees to stand. THEY STOOD, AND the group included

A $1-million home furnishings center at Rand and Elmhurst roads in Mount Prospect is slated for completion early next year, a spokesman for the L. Fish Furniture Co said last week.

The Midwest home furnishings chain has already purchased the 90,000-square-foot purcel of land and plans for the center are on the drawing boards. No construction date has been determined. The store will display a complete line in home furnishings, including wall and floor coverings and home appliances. Shoppers will have an opportunity to view model rooms which will display furniture and accessories as they would appear in the home. The Mount Prospect location will be the

"I can't tell you how happy I am."

An ordinance providing for weekly village board meetings in Mount Prospect, except for the months of July, August and December, has been referred to the judiciery committee for further study.

During the three months mentioned, board meetings will be held only twice a month, on the first and third Tuesdays. The ordinance provides that no meeting will extend beyond 10:30 p.m.

Pay Tribute to John Woods

One of the basic ingredients for a successful testimonial banquet for retired Village Pres. John Woods was a Stetson hat.

The Stetson, which looks like a soft suburban-type cowboy hat, rested quietly on an overturned cardboard box in a corner Sunday afternoon at the Arlington Park Carouse! restaurant. It belongs, of course, to 98-year-old Al Volz, Arlington Heights senior citizen.

Volz, who served as a trustee and as village president of Arlington Heights before you were born, is a segment of the history of the village. He attended the banquet, along with men like Eugene Schlickman, Gerald Marks and Jack Waish - men of the present and future to bonor John Woods.

Volz sat at the head table: he looked gray, but excited. When he was introduced, the audience of 500 persons applauded loudly, and in a steady, gravel voice Al Volz paid tribute to Woods:

"MY FRIENDS, I'M very happy to be here. Thank God I've lived to see what progress we've made in our village. In my opinion John Woods will be remembered as one of the best mayors we ever had

Arlington Heights Park District will receive a $94,733 federal grant to help develop four of nine parks slated for construction as a result of last summer's $2.8-million referendum.

The grant will free funds raised by the referendum and will be used to provide extra facilities at the nine parks.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) announced late Friday that Arlington Heights was one of five areas included in a list of grants, loans and fund reservations.

THE GRANT covers a part of the development of the following parks: Frontier Park in the Greenbrier Subdivision in the northwestern portion of the village; Heritage Park in Surrey Ridge subdivision in southern Arlington Heights; Patriot Park adjacent to MacArthur Junior High School in northeastern Arlington Heights, and Care Free Park in the Pinehurst Subdivision in the northern part of the village near Belmont, White Oak and Douglas Av-

Park Director Thomas Thornton when informed Friday of the grant, had an in-'stant reaction: "Oh, Boy!"

He had not been informed by HUD of the grant. He contacted the Chicago representative of HUD on Monday and said the office had confirmed the grant and said the Park District would receive a letter soon about the appropriation.

"I THINK IT came as much of a surprise to them in Chicago as it did to us," Thornton said.

A representative of HUD was in Arlington Heights in February to inspect the park sites. He told Thornton that the new administration in Washington had "fro-'zen" all funds and he was not very optimistic about the district's chances of receiving the grant

Thornton told the Park Board during February that "things didn't look very good" for gaining the grant.

The board had received a letter which stated HUD had received the application and the board would be informed in 90 days if the grant would be made. The announcement of the grant came almost exactly 90 days from the time of the letter.

THE ORIGINAL application was for $130,000 and was filed late last year. The grant is earmarked by the federal government for surfacing play areas, grading and landscaping at the four parks.

The grant must be used for the four parks cited in the application. However, the use of federal funds for a part of those parks will free Park District funds which can be used to provide more facilities.

"A lot of the facilities that we had to cut out can now be put back in," Thornton said. During the hassle to sign final contracts, board members had to eliminate

Considering A Stronger Housing Law

The Arlington Heights Village Board last night inched closer to a broader and tougher local open housing law, although four of its members indicated they would still favor exempting certain groups from coverage. The amendments under consideration would bring the local law in line with the Federal Open Housing Law passed last year after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

However, four members of the board -Burton Thompson, Charles Bennett. George Burlingame and William Griffin objected to a proposed removal of exemptions covering individuals who neither list their home with a real estate broker or agent or advertise their property for VILLAGE PRES. John Walsh and Trustee Dwight Walton argued, however. that the exemptions should be removed Walsh pointed out that it would increase local control to drop the exemptions.

A recent Supreme Court ruling on an open housing case outlawed discrimination in selling or purchasing homes by color. Village Atty. Jack Siegel explained that this would have blanket coverage in Arlington Heights, but it would only bag discrimination by color, not by religion or national origin.

Several members of the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee ap peared, and argued that the single-family exemption should be dropped. A spokesman for the League of Women Voters said that unless the exemption were dropped. the law would draw an arbitrary line between who can and who can't dis-

FRANK PALMATIER, at the beginning of the meeting, explained that he had shifted from an earlier position and now supported dropping the exemption. However, he later said he felt "outvoted" by his four colleagues and said he could accept a phrase in the exemptions to prevent discrimination by subdividers.

The amended ordinance will come up at a later date before the village board. The board will decide then by roll call vote whether or not to leave the exemptions in.

In other action, the board referred the question of adding an ombudsman to encourage community-government communication and a planner to appropriate board committees.

Dist. 25 Names Job Architects

The Board of Education of School Dist. 25 last night named architects for four building programs approved by voters in the March 15 referendum.

The firm of O'Donnell, Wicklund and Tigozzi will draw plans for a new elementary school planned for the Rand Junior High School site, and will also work on additions to Dunton and Olive schools.

Ganster and Henninghausen, currently working on phase I of Rand, was selected to complete the second phase of the building program. School Supt. Donald Strong said classrooms and learning center at Rand are due for completion by mid-August. Shop and home economics areas should be ready by September when the school is scheduled to open.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board established boundaries behind Miner and Thomas junior high schools. Students from the Ridge elementary district will go to Thomas in the fall, with the exception of those pupils entering the eighth grade at Miner. They will remain at Miner for the school year and graduation.

At present, Ridge children north of Oakton Street attend Thomas and those south of Oakton attend Miner. The boundary switch will equalize enrollments at both junior high schools.

The board previously established Palatine Road as the boundary between Thomas and Rand.

Dist. 214 Teachers To Vote

High School Dist. 214 teachers will be asked Thursday to approve a 1969-70 salary and benefit package that sets a salary range of $7,400 to $15,540.

School board members were briefed last night on the package proposal in the door session. They will probably meet to approve it next Monday.

The salary package calls for a $700 raise from last year's $6,700 starting salary. More teachers will get a larger raise than that. Jack Martin, assistant to Supt. Edward H. Gilbert, said the average Dist. 214 teacher, with eight years' experience and a master's degree, will get a 14 per cent raise under the new salary scale. The salary level for that teacher this year was $10,553, compared to $11,248 proposed for

The salary package was negotiated between school board negotiators and bargainers for the Teachers Association. DURING THE PROCESS both sides

gave ground. Teachers Association representatives started by asking an $8,500 starting salary for a beginning teacher with a bechelor's degree and a $9,000 starting salary for a beginning teacher with a master's.

The settlement calls for a beginning teacher with a master's degree to start in one of Dist. 214's six schools - Arlington, Prospect, Forest View, Wheeling, Elk Grove, or Hersey - at a 10-month salary of $8,140.

The current salary scale offers $13,800 double the starting salary — to a 15-year teacher with 30 credit hours beyond the master's degree level. The 1969-70 salary package up for approval by the teachers Thursday will offer double the starting salary - $14,800 - to a 15-year teaching veteran without the extra credit past a master's.

The package calls for higher extra-duty pay for teachers who supervised extracurricular activities. The highest extraduty pay level, $1,100, will go to head football, head basketball and head debate coaches. Teachers, irritated at a public which thinks that because the total staff-student ratio in Dist. 214 is 19-1, the average class load is 19 students, successfully included in their bargaining demands a stipulation that from now on Dist. 214 report teacherstudents loads as well.

BOARD MEMBERS were able to set the door ajar regarding merit pay, a long-time preference of the school board. One of the points in the bargaining package calls for an "ad hoc" committee to be appointed by the board of education to

by MARY DRESSER

Farm interests in the Cook County area have decided to support House Bill 1241. thereby reversing their original decision to oppose the bill allowing annexation of unincorporated territories by ordinance.

The bill's sponsor, State Rep. Eugene Schlickman R Artington Heights, huddled with nursery owner Carl Klehm and Gordon Fox, executive director of the Cook County Farm Bureau Saturday and emerged from the session with the blessings of the farmer's group.

According to Fox, there had been confusion about a section of the bill covering annexation of farm land.

SINCE IN COOK County there is no zoning specified for agricultural land, the Farmer's Bureau was under the impression farm and truck garden land could be annexed involuntarily to villages.

Fox says letters were sent May 20 to nine Cook County senators in an effort to defeat the bill which has passed the state house of representatives.

Only one senator has responded to the first letter, Sen. John Graham (R-3rd District, Barrington). Graham came out last week opposing the bill as an attempt to violate the freedom of the individual

Fox says the State Farm Bureau supported the bill, but because Cook County had no zoning for agriculture the Cook County Farm Bureau was seriously con-

SCHLICKMAN GAVE Fox, and nursery owner Klehm a copy of the bill to prove that the clause "agricultural use" had been included to protect farm interests.

"We thought at first it would mean forcing farm land into a city when a farm wouldn't use city services," Fox told the Herald. "However, studying the bill we found we would have the choice of not going into (a city). The bill doesn't make farm annexation mandatory."

The Cook County Farm Bureau represents 7,320 farmers who own 4,264 in Illinois. Of these 4,264 farms, 1,008 are in Cook County and comprise 104,000 acres Some of this land is not in use, but 86,000 acres are now planted for crops and 7,000

"They didn't realize there were safeguards in the bill putting the burden of proof on the municipality," Schlickman told the Herald

He says he pointed out to bureau representatives there were nine conditions the annexing municipality had to meet in order to bring an unincorporated area under municipal jurisdiction.

The bill is now under fire from homeowner's groups in unincorporated areas including Prospect Heights, Palatine, and

The Euclid-Lake Homeowner's Association in Prospect Heights, sparked by vocal Mrs. Marie Caylor, intends to send representatives to Springfield to testify against the bill during Senate hearings.

MRS. C. E. POTTER, secretary of the Pinehurst Manor Association in Palatine has also expressed opposition to the bill saving the bill is "taking away our basic right of choice.'

In a recent letter to the Herald, Schlickman stressed several points of disagreement with a May 15 story.

The bill was not submitted to the House last year by Schlickman and denied the governor's signature, Schlickman con-

"In 1967 (not 1968) I introduced a bill almost identical to HB 1241 at the request of the Illinois Municipal League on the very last day for the introduction of bills,"

"The bill was approved in committee (principally by Democratic votes), but 1 purposely held the bill at second reading in the house because of the concern of another suburbar legislator, and the Municipal League would not come up with an amendment to allay his fear."

Schlickman also calls attention to the fact that the bill requires notice of proposed annexation be sent to property owners by certified or registered mail in addition to a legal notice.

Board members generally listened sympathetically to Johnson's views without backing away from their commitment to give the ROTC unit at Wheeling a try.

Firm Hand Needed

Russell W. Steger, a member of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois, said some schools are "choking on their own permissiveness," and caleld for a firm hand in dealing with university discipline problems.

Steger made his remarks last night at the Elk Grove Township GOP meeting. He is a newly elected member of the board of trustees of the university.

The trustee touched on the continuing problems a major university faces in dealing with student confrontations and dissident groups on campuses.

We have 31,000 students at the University of Illinois. We've got to talk to them and have them talk to us because if they ever get out of control, no one will ever be able to control 31,000 people."

Steger related the problems of university trustees in dealing with black mili-

"THE BLACK PROBLEM is with us. It is a constant thing and one which requires our attention. Currently, the university administration feels the defensive way is the best way. In other words, don't give them too many things to get excited about.

Steger was talking about the univer-sity's Project 500, in which several hundred black students were recruited by the University of Illinois. Before the project, the university had some 300 black students out of its 31,000 enrollment.

Later militant action by the black students on campus caused repercussions to

"Let's face it," Steger said. "Ghetto kids have one hell of a tough problem. A kid from a Chicago ghetto coming to the University of Illinois has to have an emotional problem when faced with college life. We must find some way to provide them the opportunities they desperately

"But on the other hand," Steger continued, "I'll close the place down before I'll let anyone intimidate me."

Steger generally took a hard line against student militancy and against faculty members who side with students against the administration and trustees. The trustee said, however, that he recognized that students from minority groups must be given some help toward a university education.

STEGER TERMED members of the Students for a Democratic Society a "shallow group," but reiterated that the honest problems of the black community must be faced by the university.

The trustee pledged that new reforms at the university will return the full power of discipline to the nine trustees of the university "who represent 5 million tax-

Park Director Thomas Thornton said that he expected construction to start sooner than it has and thus playground equipment was removed in January, a slack season when labor was available.

The answers given for the taking down of playground equipment did not satisfy board members, who asked for a complete all nine park sites.

BOARD MEMBERS decided to reinsert fire alarms in their plans for construction of four park-pool sites. These four sites are Frontier, Camelot, Heritage and Olympic Pool parks. The fire alarm systeams were originally deleted from plans because the district was running short of funds for construction.

Woman For Seat?

The Wheeling Township Republican Womans Club has adopted a resolution urging Mrs. Virginia Macdonald to seek the 13th District congressional seat vacated Monday by Donald Rumsfeld

Mrs Lois Brank president of the club, printed out yesterday that the resolution is not an endorsement of Mrs. Macdonald, who has not announced her candidacy for the seat, but only "a resolution of our faith in her " The club "would commend and applaud Mrs Macdonald if she decides to seek this office" and urges "all possible encooragement' for her candidacy, Mrs. Brank said She added that it is the club's policy to encourage qualified Republican women to seek office. U.S. REP. EULENE Schlickman, who is from Wheeling Township and who is considered a prime candidate for the vacant 13th District seat, was not available for comment on the womans club resolu-

Mrs Macdonald, of 515 S Belmont Ave, Arlington Heights, is a founding member of the Wheeling Township Republi can Womans Club, and has served as Wheeling Township Committeewoman and Cook County GOP chairwoman.

She is now the first vice president of the Illinois Federation of Republican Women. She was the head of women's activities in the reelection of U. S. Sen. Everett Dirksen last year, and was affiliated with Son.

Charles Percy's New Illinois committee. Although she has been active in politics for 16 years, Mrs. Macdonald has never sought a paid position.
